JFK CALLS BUDGET PRUDENT

. . . Proposed $92.5 Billion 1963 Spending Program Highest In History

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

Washington (AP) — President Kennedy brought forth Thursday what he termed a prudent, responsible $92,537,000,000 budget that calls for a small, shaky surplus—and $11.5 billion more spending than any peacetime budget ever submitted to congress.

Kennedy said it will strengthen the domestic economy, the national defense, and a free world still under the shadow of threatened war.

This new budget is for the 1963 fiscal year, beginning next July 1. The President sent it up to Capitol Hill accompanied by a 7,400-word message telling why he thinks it is a good one.

It counts on good times at home and on a reluctant Congress to boost the price of mailing a letter to help keep income and spending in balance. It contemplates a drop in the unemployment rate from 6.1 to 4% by mid-1963. It regards nuclear war as less likely than lesser scale communist aggression. It promises to reach out more vigorously toward the moon and Venus.

"I recommend it to the Congress for action," the President said, "in full confidence that it provides for the prudent use of our resources to serve the national interest."

Some key Republicans and a few Democrats in Congress were contending before they saw the budget that it is so heavy on spending that it will be impossible to keep it balanced.

However, Budget Director David E. Bell told reporters:

"It is our judgment that this is not a phony and rigged budget but an honest and accurate budget."

Bell's comment was in response to reminders that some Democrats last year accused former President Eisenhower of submitting a "phony" budget which indicated a surplus that did not materialize.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon, discussing the projected $11-billion revenue increase, told newsmen that the administration expects the economic upswing to continue at least until the late summer or fall of 1963.

"That is the minimum we could count on," he said.

As reported earlier, Dillon said Kennedy will submit later this year a proposed broad scale tax overhaul, including a review of basic tax rates, for congressional action in 1963.

There is little that is essentially new and nothing in the way of a major surprise in the 1963 budget. But it is the first one that is all Kennedy's own.

Stronger Defense

A year ago the new President inherited a farewell budget from Dwight D. Eisenhower and began adding $8 billion to it, mostly for a mightier defense.

Eisenhower had recommended what at the time was a record peace-time spending program of $81 billion for the present 1962 fiscal year which closes June 30. The figure now has been pushed up to an estimated $89.1 billion.

At this point, Kennedy is proposing to add another $3,462,000,000 to the spending level in the next fiscal year. More than three-fourths of the increase, he said, will be pumped into national defense and the expanding space program.

This works out to a projected rise in over-all national defense outlays of $1.5 billion, from $51.2 billion to $52.7 billion, and a boost in space spending of $1.1 billion, from $1.3 billion to $2.4 billion.

The $52.7 billion includes $48.3 billion for support of the defense establishment; the remainder is earmarked for military assistance abroad, atomic energy and other defense-related items.

While there will be some "important shifts in direction and emphasis," Kennedy said, expenditures for the government's so-called domestic civil functions will remain just about where they are now.

He figures that the government will take in a little more than it pays out next year, and says that is about the way things should be.

In other words — or rather in figures — he expects Uncle Sam's income to climb from $82.1 billion in fiscal 1962 to an even $93 billion in fiscal 1963. Measured against the $92,537,000,000 spending total, this will provide what the President calls a modest appropriate surplus of $463 million — if all the calculations come out right.

Counting On Boost

But as Eisenhower did before him, Kennedy is leaning on a boost of about $600 million in postal rates to keep his budget in the black. The chances that the increase might clear Congress look a little better now than they have in the past. But if Congress balks again at raising the price of delivering the mail, there would go the surplus — unless the legislators whack away at some of the spending suggestions.

Kennedy's aid-to-education program appears in for some trouble again — he plugged for it once more in the budget. But if the program should be jettisoned by Congress, there isn't enough set aside for the first year's expenditures to make up for any failure to vote an extra $600 million in postal revenues.

If the Treasury winds up with the anticipated surplus in the cash box, the national debt will go down by nearly half a billion dollars, to $294,920,000,000 on June 30, 1963.

But in the meantime, the

'CRITICAL' TEST

Atomic Age Ushered In

SCIENTISTS WIND UP HALLAM'S A-REACTOR

Scientists watched dials, made mathematical calculations and waited for the atomic age to come to Nebraska early this morning in the form of atomic energy.

It was a historic moment at Sheldon Station, Consumer Public Power District's answer to converting the atom into peaceful use.

In the language of the scientist, the "critical point" was expected to be reached early Friday...the point at which actor create nuclear fission to start a chain reaction, that results in the release of energy.

The tests were designed to verify physics calculations on the core of the reactor.

A team of scientists was on hand from Atomics International, a division of North American Aviation Co., that has prime responsibility for design, construction and testing of the reactor.

'Wet' Tests Next

Under the "dry critical" tests underway early Friday, only uranium fuel rods are put into the reactor. After these tests are completed at Hallam, probably in 3 weeks, the reactor will be put through "wet critical" tests.

The latter tests include the use of sodium. Uranium in the reactor produces heat, which the sodium picks up and transfers to water, producing the end product . . . steam.

If all tests are successful, the reactor may be producing power by next summer, officials estimate.

Both Methods

The Hallam plant at that time will be able to produce power by atomic energy, and conventional methods. The atomic system will produce some 75,000 kilowatts of power, compared to approximately 100,000 kilowatts under conventional methods.

The Hallam reactor has 5 major components:

The core, in which the nuclear fuel is assembled;

The graphite moderator which slows the neutrons given off by fissioning of the atoms of the fuel;

The control rods which can completely stop the chain reaction by capturing neutrons so they cannot continue their fissioning process;

The coolant, liquid sodium which transfers the intense heat developed by fissioning of the fuel from the core so the heat can be converted into mechanical energy and then into electrical energy;

The shielding, primarily concrete, which prevents neutrons and radiation from escaping from the reactor.

Junta Ousted In Dominican

. . . STAGE COUNTER COUP

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic (AP) — The deposed provisional ruling state council Thursday night recaptured control of the Dominican government from the junta headed by military strongman Gen. Pedro Rodriguez Echavarria.

Rodriguez Echavarria, the 37-year-old general who threw out the council 48 hours before, was imprisoned in a military counter coup and 4 of his junta members also were arrested.

The air force general was reported taken prisoner by a group of his own officers.

New President

Rafael Bonnelly was proclaimed new president of the republic and head of the 7-man council.

(In Washington the U.S. State Department said it had no immediate comment on the turn of events. It had supported the council and strongly opposed the junta that took over Tuesday.)

In its first act after returning to the National Palace the council unanimously approved a motion by Bonnelly to accept the resignation of Joaquin Balaguer, president until the overthrow last Tuesday.

Cleared Way

This act legally cleared the way for Bonnelly, as vice president under Balaguer, to take over as leader of the nation.

In a speech from the National Palace, Bonnelly, a 57-year-old lawyer, expressed his gratutude to the armed forces for restoring the council.

The news of the lightening government turnabout touched off the wildest celebration in the memory of old residents of this ancient Caribbean capital.

Liberty, Liberty

Thousands poured into the streets shouting "liberty, liberty." Women wept and church bells from several of the oldest churches in the hemisphere pealed forth the tidings.

People jammed the National Palace gates to cheer the council. Gunfire crackled all over the city and police and soldiers joined in the celebration.

Santo Domingo, which lay quiet and tense a few hours before, was suddenly alive with lights and music.

No One Hero

An air force officer said of the coup: "We all did it. There is not one hero in this. The day of personal symbolism in the republic is gone."

The first indication of the coup had come from a Dominican radio broadcast announced that "heroic armed forces" had turned the tables.

The development came after the junta lost control in its battle to restore order and win public acceptance.

An almost total shutdown of shops and stores had prevailed in the capital's business district in open defiance of the junta's threat of fines and prison for violators of its anti-strike order.

Rusk Says Reds Have Not Budged

. . . ON BERLIN

Washington (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Thursday the Russians have not budged on their Berlin stand and the situation there remains dangerous.

At a 25-minute news conference, his first this year, Rusk also said U.S. diplomats in the Dominican Republic are talking with local leaders in an effort to promote a new Democratic government in place of the military junta which took over Tuesday.

"It is of the utmost importance that the moderate elements among the leadership in the Dominican Republic find a basis on which they can work together," he said.

Asked whether the U.S. Navy will steam toward the Caribbean Island, Rusk said if that happened "it would be known publicly immediately."

Rusk declined to join in published speculation about what is going on inside Russia now. Some Western observers believe Premier Khrushchev is in a struggle with Stalinist opponents.

"We, of course, are interested in such news as we get," Rusk said, "but from long experience, I would suppose that speculation by a secretary of state on that particular subject would be fruitless."

Charge Against Elgart Dropped

LEADER, 2 BANDSMEN FREED FOR LACK OF EVIDENCE

By JIM DUNLEVEY
Star Staff Writer

Narcotics charges against Les Elgart and two of his musicians were dismissed Thursday afternoon for "lack of sufficient legal evidence."

County Attorney Paul Douglas asked the dismissal following District Judge Paul White's ruling Wednesday that marijuana taken from the luggage of Grant M. Wallin, 27, of Chicago was illegally seized and could not be admitted as evidence.

District Court charges of illegal possession of narcotics against Wallin and Kenneth C. Tucker, 25, of Chicago were dismissed, as was a similar charge in County Court against Elgart, 44, of New York.

Douglas said exclusion of the marijuana left a "lack of sufficient legal evidence" to continue the prosecutions.

"There was a lot of similarity between the police search of Wallin's hotel room and the rooms occupied by Elgart and Tucker," Douglas said.

Four other members of the band still are charged with possession of narcotics. Douglas said he would "review the factual situation in those cases in the light of the judge's opinion." He said he probably would reach a decision early next week.

The 4 still facing District Court are Charles Louis Russell, 20, of Northbrook, Ill., Keith Allen Thomas, 22, of Terre Haute, Ind., Edward Levensohn, 34, of New York, and Sture B. Swenson, 26, of Chicago.

All have filed motions to suppress any evidence seized from their hotel rooms, and are free on bond.

The 7 musicians were arrested after playing for the University of Nebraska Homecoming dance Nov. 4.

Weatherman Won't Be A Comfort . . . No, Sir!

Nebraskans can get no comfort by talking to a weatherman for the next couple of days.

Snows that began over the state Thursday, dropping temperatures to sub-zero marks, are expected to continue Friday. But the snow will become lighter, weather observers note.

Snow was reported at Omaha, Scottsbluff, Chadron, Norfolk, Sidney, North Platte, and Grand Island Thursday. Snow with blowing snow was falling in Lincoln during the night.

Zero Or Lower

Temperatures across the state dropped to zero or lower and are expected to remain below normal for the next several days.

Highs Friday are predicted for the zero to 5 degree range.

Thursday's snows caused Lincoln streets to be very icy and cars were having trouble getting away at most intersections.

Despite the hazardous streets police reported only one injury accident during the day. There were numerous non-injury mishaps during the afternoon and evening.

Solons—'It Will, It Won't'

Washington (AP) — President Kennedy's prediction of an $11-billion jump in federal income during the coming year split Congress into rival "it will . . . it won't" camps Thursday.

Republican leaders and some Democrats were sharply critical of the president's $92.5-billion budget, with its forecast of a $463-million surplus, while administration stalwarts defended their chief's figures as sound, constructive and responsible.

Kennedy's thesis that government revenues will rise from $82 billion to $93 billion July 1 attracted most attention.

No Quarrel

No one quarreled with the $52.7 billion allocated for defense spending, but some critics in both parties said efforts will be made to cut other items.

"Truly President Kennedy is heading us toward the Leviathan state," said Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois. "The administration is racing headlong into future deficits of enormous size by spending all income at a time of peak prosperity and by starting new programs certain to cost billions in the future years, necessarily financed by borrowed money."

The Republican House leader, Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, called the President's program "the old story of more power for the White House, more spending, more debts and more taxes."

Sound Formula

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana on the other hand said the budget offers "a sound formula for maintaining both fiscal responsibility and the forward momentum of the nation's economy."

The new speaker of the House, John W. McCormack, D-Mass., said it is "a sound, constructive budget, geared to a great and expanding future for the world's greatest country."

"I am especially happy to see its emphasis on unquestioned supremacy in the field of national security," McCormack added.

Skepticism

Rep. Clarence Cannon, D-Mo., chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, expressed dissatisfaction and skepticism. He said:

"The claim that it is a balanced budget depends on too many ifs, rather than on retrenchment."

Rep. Leslie C. Arends of Illinois, the assistant House Republican leader, called the budget "wholly unrealistic . . . nothing more or less than a political document with the fiction of being balanced." Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., said it amounts to "a king of economic whistling in the dark."

Former President Harry S. Truman, in town for a Democratic dinner Saturday night, said Kennedy has made "a grand start."

"The country grows and so does the budget," Truman said.

Coroner's Jury Rules Shooting As Accidental

Wahoo (AP)—A coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death Thursday afternoon in the shooting of 39-year-old Mrs. Nina Radcliff.

Ferdinand A. Holtz, 56, held since the shooting last Tuesday was released from custody.

Holtz, who lived with Mrs. Radcliff and her husband, Howard, 58, at a farm, told the jury he had been preparing to go hunting when Mrs. Radcliff said "this is my birthday and we will have some drinks."

Holtz said the woman grabbed the shotgun, jerked it and the weapon discharged.

'Shoot For The Moon' Is All Set

BY HOWARD BENEDICT

Cape Canaveral, Fla. (AP) — The United States plans literally and figuratively to "shoot for the moon" next week in what could be its proudest period of the young space age.

Undergoing final checks on launching pads here are a trio of powerful rockets designed to boost the first American into orbit about the earth, to land a package of instruments on the moon and to hurl 5 satellites aloft simultaneously.

The "big bone," of course, is Wednesday's scheduled attempt to rocket astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., into an orbit which will whip him 3 times around the world at altitudes up to 150 miles in 4½ hours.

But no less important to space scientists are the moon shot, scheduled Monday, and the quintuplet satellite firing, set for Thursday.

All 3 launchings will contribute greatly to this nation's avowed goal of placing a 3-man astronaut team on the moon in this decade, hopefully by 1967.

Pitiless Publicity

If the United States stubs its toe on any of the launchings, it will be in the glare of publicity. Hundreds of newsmen from many countries are pouring into the nearby missile community of Cocoa Beach, which long ago ran out of motel and hotel rooms for next week. Restaurants and night clubs are booming.

Thousands of persons will cram the beaches north and south of the Cape, millions will watch on television when the Atlas rockets carrying Glenn and the Ranger 3 moon probe blast off. This is in deep contrast to the secrecy which surrounds Russian space shots.

Glenn, 40-year-old Marine lieutenant colonel, and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Scott Carpenter, the backup pilot, are in special quarters at Cape Canveral. As Glenn's big day nears, he is in almost constant touch with Project Mercury engineers and scientists. He is practicing 3-orbit missions in a ground-based capsule and is becoming thoroughly familiar with the actual spacecraft atop the Atlas booster on launch pad 14.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration Thursday released details of the Ranger 3 moon shot — which is designed to take closeup pictures of the moon and then land the world's first "live" instrument parcel on the lunar surface.

An Atlas Agena B rocket is intended to boost the 727-pound gold-and-silver plated payload aloft on the 66-hour trip to the moon. A television camera is to relay crude pictures of the surface as the vehicle approaches from an altitude of 2,400 miles down to 15 miles. Then a 96.5 pound sphere is to detach, slow down by means of a reverse rocket and bounce on the surface.

The ball, wrapped in a thick layer of shock-absorbing balsa wood, carries a sensitive seismometer to measure moonquakes and meteor impacts. This information, radioed to NASA's jet propulsion laboratory facility at Goldstone, Calif., should provide valuable data about the composition of the moon's surface.

The 5-in-1 satellite rocket, to be launched by the Air Force and Navy, is a Thor-Able-Star. A similar rocket successfully orbited 3 satellites at one time earlier this year.

Electricians Get 25-Hr. Week

New York (UPI)—A strike of 9,000 electricians ended Thursday night under an agreement giving them the shortest work week in the nation—25 hours.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner said he had been informed by union officials and 3 electrical contractors associations that the electricians would be called back to work Friday morning.

The 8-day walkout had seriously affected New York's $1.25 billion-a-year construction industry.

The electricians had asked for a 20-hour week. They previously worked a 30-hour week. Harry Van Arsdale Jr., business manager of the union, initiated the compromise of a 25-hour week.

Earlier in the day, about one-third of the electricians went back to work after officials of Local 3 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and 125 electrical contractors came to an agreement. Agreement was reached Thursday night with the other 475 contractors.

Terms of the compromise settlement included the 5-hour day—plus an extra hour a day at overtime rates—a 56-cent-an-hour pay hike and a third week of vacation after 25 years.

The two-year contract becomes effective July 1. Under it electricians—who now make $165 with standard overtime under a 30-hour week—will get $161.20 with the hour of overtime every day.

Salt Wahoo Would Get $2.6 Million

The Salt-Wahoo Watershed District will have $2,611,000 available for expenditure during the next fiscal year if President Kennedy's budget is approved.

Kennedy's budget would appropriate $2.3 million in new money for Salt-Wahoo.

The district would receive an additional carryover of $311,000 in unspent funds, general counsel Robert Crosby of Lincoln said.

"We are pleased and gratified at the continuing recognition of this program by the administration and the Bureau of the Budget," Crosby said.

Salt-Wahoo President Otto Liebers said it is too early to tell whether the President's recommendations are enough to keep the district's activities on schedule.

Later review should provide the answer, he said.

President Declares His Budget 'Prudent'

government will be pushing so hard on the present legal lid of $298 billion on the public debt that Kennedy said Congress must raise the ceiling to a record $308 billion to take care of temporary spending surges.

"This budget," Kennedy said in a finale to his message, "represents a blending of many considerations which affect our national welfare.

"Choices among the conflicting claims on our resources have necessarily been heavily influenced by international developments that continue to threaten world peace. At the same time, the budget supports those activities that have great significance to the nation's social and economic growth — the mainsprings of our national strength and leadership."

Two Objectives

Two main objectives were kept in mind in drawing up the budget, Kennedy said. He described them as:

First, to carry forward activities assigned to the federal government by national consensus. The President said these functions range from defense to postal services, from oceanographic research to space exploration.

Second, to achieve a financial plan bringing receipts and expenditures into a relationship "which will contribute to economic growth, high employment and price stability in our national economy."

But as has been the case for years, the budget was preponderantly given over to defense.

For 1963, it proposes that 63 cents of every dollar spent go into defense, the conduct of international affairs, and a stepped-up effort to conquer space.

Interest charges alone are going to cost another 10 cents out of the dollar — they are approaching a total of $10 billion a year.

Expenditures on veterans and on agriculture will use up about 6 cents each out of the dollar.

All other activities of the government, including costs of running the myriad federal departments and agencies, Congress and the courts, will account for only 9 cents.

For the most part, the budget adds figures to the program for the nation which Kennedy laid down in general terms in the State of the Union Message he delivered to Congress in person a week ago today. Some of his ideas are covered in broad terms in the budget — a new farm program, for example — although the details will be sent along in a series of special messages later on.

A reduction in proposed agricultural expenditures from $6.3 billion to $5.8 billion carried in the budget, Kennedy said, reflects suggestions he will make in his special farm message, due Jan. 30.

$40 Million Earmarked For Nebraska Projects

Washington (UPI) — The government would conduct a public works and reclamation program of almost $40 million in Nebraska during the fiscal year starting next July 1, under the budget that President Kennedy proposed to Congress Thursday.

The President's budget earmarked $24 million for Army Engineers projects and $15.5 million for those of the Bureau of Reclamation.

The engineers budgeted $16 million for construction work in Nebraska and neighboring states, $7.9 million to operate and maintain existing works, and $106,000 for general investigations.

The bureau's budget earmarked $6.8 million for the Farwell unit, $5.8 million for the Ainsworth unit, $1,714,000 to complete the Red Willow Dam and reservoir on the Frenchman-Cambridge division, $741,000 for the North Platte project, $285,000 for transmission lines at Chadron, Gering, and Ogallala. and $224,000 on the Bostwick division.

Biggest item in the engineers' construction budget was the $11.4 million earmarked to stabilize the Missouri River channel from Sioux City to the mouth, through Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas and Missouri.

$2.3 for Salt Creek

Other items included $2.3 million to build agricultural levees in the 4 states and $2.3 million to control floods along Salt Creek and its tributaries.

General investigations proposed included $60,000 for the Missouri in Nebraska and the Dakotas, $11,000 for the Nemaha-Little Nemaha in Nebraska and Kansas, and $35,000 for the Platte River in Nebraska.

Lower Basin Figures Reflect Work Ending

Washington (AP)—Less money for the huge Missouri Basin program is being asked for the year starting July 1, reflecting completion of some projects in the program.

President Kennedy's budget for the year, sent to congress Thursday, proposes about $10 million less for the basin program than is being spent in the current year.

The program to harness the Missouri River was authorized by Congress in 1944. It includes flood control, irrigation, power and other projects. Some of them are in operation, others are nearing completion.

Kennedy asked $48,900,000 to continue work on 4 big dams and reservoirs in the upper reaches. This is about $10 million less than is expected to be spent on them in the fiscal year ending June 30.

The President also asked $60,543,000 for irrigation and other reclamation works in the basin, about $1 million under the spending estimates for the current year.

The new budget proposed $23 million to continue work on the Big Bend Dam and Reservoir in South Dakota, an Army Engineer project estimated to cost $127.5 million when completed. A spokesman for the engineers said that by June 30 nearly $32 million will have been spent on this dam, bringing it to 26% of completion. It is designed to generate 468,000 kilowatts of power.

$20 Million For Oahe

Also requested was $20 million for work on the Oahe Dam and Reservoir in South Dakota, estimated to cost $360 million. Congress already has appropriated nearly $295 million for this project to bring it to 83 per cent of completion. It is to generate 595,000 kilowatts of power.

Only $2.3 million was asked to continue work on Fort Randall Dam and Reservoir in South Dakota. This project, estimated to cost $194.9 million, is scheduled to be 97% complete by June 30. It already is generating its full 320,000 kilowatt capacity.

Garrison Nears End

The key control project, Garrison Dam and Reservoir in North Dakota, is estimated to be 99% complete by June 30. Estimated cost is $291 million. The President asked for $600,000 for minor work there. The dam is now producing 400,000 kilowatts of power.

No funds were asked for the Gavins Point Dam and Reservoir in South Dakota and Nebraska. This project is essentially completed. Estimated cost is $47,834,000. The power plant there is generating 100,000 kilowatts.

Injuries Fatal To GI Driver

Grand Island (AP) — Walter Hoeltke, 57, of Grand Island died in a hospital Thursday of head and chest injuries suffered Monday in the collision of his car and a Union Pacific passenger train here.

His death was the first in Hall County this year and the 14th in Nebraska compared with 10 at this time a year ago.

The engineer of the train, Frank Pleyte, North Platte, told police the northbound car drove in front of the train.

Mr. Hoeltke is survived by his widow, Nelda.

Ray Simmons Not Candidate For Any Office

By the Associated Press

One of Nebraska Chief Justice Robert Simmons' two lawyer sons said Thursday he will not seek his father's post. The other says he probably will not.

The elder Simmons has reached retirement age.

In Fremont, Ray C. Simmons said he has no plans to file for the court post or for any other office.

Robert G. Simmons Jr., Scottsbluff attorney, said he had not made up his mind but probably will not run for the non-political post.

Great Plains Wheat Growers Urged To Meet Foreign Need

Markets for Midwest-grown wheat have shifted dramatically to overseas outlets during the period since World War II, Dr. L. W. Schruben, professor of agricultural economics at Kansas State University, said Thursday.

He spoke at the hard red winter wheat workers conference.

He said, however, that U.S. wheat producers — particularly hard red winter wheat growers in the Great Plains—must do a better job of providing the kind of wheat foreign buyers want.

Dr. Schruben noted that wheat is the largest food resource available in this country for export. Yet, he said, the 1962 world deficit of foodstuffs of the type exemplified by wheat was 1.1 billion bushels.

"This is 90% of what we (the United States) have been producing in recent years and about 165% of what we've been exporting." he said.

He added there is clearly a human need in the world for all the food that can be produced. He said the problem is to achieve economic balance so that this need can be translated into market demand and proper channels for distribution.

'Negative Approach'

Dr. E. G. Heyne, professor of plant breeding at Kansas State University, said that the "negative approach" has been used effectively by plant breeders in achieving the high level of wheat yields in recent years.

He said that nearly all approaches toward the improvement of the wheat plant through breeding have been causes of merely protecting the potential yield by adding disease resistance, assuring complete harvest of the grain by having non-shattering or stronger-strawed types, and adaptation to climatic conditions in a given area.

Dr. Heyne said that plant breeders are also taking a "positive approach" — attempting to genetically increase the yield potential — through the use of hybrid vigor.

Dr. Louis E. Hawkins, director of the Oklahoma Agricultural Experiment Station, said development of a wider assortment of palatable wheat food and extensive use of wheat as a livestock feed grain would help cure some of the ills of the wheat industry.

Dr. Hawkins said that the most valuable and profitable outlet for wheat will continue to be as a food commodity . . . but he added that there is a "critical need" for tasty breads and coffee cakes that will please the palate, and help reverse the trend toward a rapidly decreasing per capita consumption of wheat.

'Staggering Problems'

Another speaker was Dr. L. P. Reitz, leader of wheat investigations for the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Crops Research Division, Beltsville, Md.

He said that despite a 40% increase in yield over varieties available in 1900, wheat researchers are still faced with solving staggering problems which face the industry today. Among the problems listed were losses from weeds, diseases, insects and storage, and genetic shortcomings evident even in today's modern varieties.

Budget Lists North Platte, GI Buildings

Washington (UPI) — The General Services Administration plans to invest almost $2 million in federal buildings at North Platte and Grand Island, Neb., President Kennedy's budget shows.

The GSA proposals for the fiscal year beginning next July 1 included $1,588,000 for a post office and courthouse at North Platte and $322,000 for construction and alteration to the Grand Island building.

Character Of A City

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Mixed emotions might best describe the average reaction to the effort now being made to put the question of liquor by the drink to a vote of the people. It can be said with all honesty that the question in itself is actually not a very significant one. When you get right down to it, liquor by the drink or in any other form is far from an essential of life. This doesn't mean that those who partake of alcoholic beverages are evil, immoral or anything else.

There is probably no more compelling reason for most people to stop drinking than there are reasons for liquor by the drink. Those who abuse themselves by excesses are a problem of a different nature and whether the real trouble is drink or something else is a question that no one has ever been able to answer with much authority. Certainly, with many problem drinkers and alcoholics, liquor is but an escape from fundamental weaknesses of character which would undoubtedly find an expression in some form or another if mankind had never discovered how to make anything intoxicating. Who really knows if the expression of such weaknesses would be more or less acceptable with the complete absence of liquor?

Considering Alternative

Many elements of this problem could be discussed and examined for the rest of eternity and never concluded to the satisfaction of everyone. It is, therefore, doubtful that the issue of liquor by the drink in Lincoln will ever be settled at the polls on anything resembling a factual basis. Rather, the basis will be opinion, perhaps prejudice and a good portion of emotion.

In opinion and emotion, too, can be found some of the factors which would affect any vote on the subject. Lincoln does not now have liquor by the drink because its existence has never fit the character pattern of the city. One can be cynical of this character if he so desires but he can hardly deny that it expresses itself time and time again in community affairs.

Lincoln is now only in the second generation of its people so we are not far removed from the hardy stock which opened the streets of this city, built its stores and sacrificed for its institutions. The earlier settlers of Lincoln were people who came West for the same reasons as those who settled throughout the Great Plains region. While their character has been marked by their ruggedness, their tenacity and their ambition, there was in many of them a moral fiber and a personal discipline that sustained them. Independence was their balm and they sweat so that what they passed on was superior to that which they found upon their arrival.

In their lives there was not a great deal of room for the frivolities of life. Times were often hard and solace frequently found only in their dreams. But from this character they hewed a state with many cities and Lincoln was among them. Here they built a modest university, never dreaming that it would some day be the sprawling campus that it is today. Here they placed the seat of their government, never imagining that it would become the giant it is today. Here men entered into business and commerce and from humble beginnings great establishments have sprung. They provided schools for their children, churches in which to worship on Sunday, eventually went 25 miles for water, dedicated parks and did all those things that cause a man to feel warm inside and grateful for the opportunity that comes his way.

If the people of Lincoln and the state have been slow to change, it is only because they cherish their accomplishments and because they can recall so vividly a day when things were much more difficult and the rewards of life few and far between. They fought a magnificent battle for their homes and these homes were all the more revered because of the labor it took to establish them.

These people were a God-fearing people, despite the fact that a different kind of picture has often been presented of them. They were not necessarily overjoyed with their lot in life but they could see a rewarding future, a place where coming generations could prosper.

There was nothing prudish or Victorian about them; they simply had to occupy themselves with the fundamentals of living and this left little room for many things. Their sense of values, nurtured in an environment of self-reliance, demanded that first things come first and this didn't leave a great deal of room for excessive socializing and the pursuit of empty pleasures. In the light of this inheritance, it is little wonder that Sunday movies were once considered by many as a threat to the morality of the people and that liquor by the drink should now be a subject of considerable debate.

Stern Pattern Of Life

Liquor by the drink is not much of an evil in itself nor are we exactly honest with ourselves in our puritanical opposition to it. But it is in the eyes of many people a symbol of the kind of thing that doesn't fit with the spirit that has been handed down from the past generation to the present. If enough time has passed to dim that spirit, be such a thing good or bad, liquor by the drink possibly could be voted in but it is doubtful that this is the case.

"We've Still Got A Little Cutting And Splicing To Do"

The Deterministic Society

As if we haven't enough already to worry us, that particularly fertile minded group which approaches genius in conceiving ways of treating the human race malevolently, is now envisioning an even more dreadful way of making war.

They are eyeing the asteroids—the more or less small, free-sample type of stars which are constantly wandering around in our orbit, presently attending to their own business, which in cosmic terms, doesn't amount to much. On the table of terrestial weights and measures these asteroids are about as consequential as a snow flake, but in terms of their potential damage to people, communities and perhaps even continents they could be extremely consequential.

It is now believed that astronauts in space will be competent enough after another decade or so to use well placed hydrogen bombs to chip an asteroid out of its tenuous orbit and then, with a little shepherding, pitch it earthward in the general direction of the town of Dry Gulch for a big bang. The force of such a collision could be equal to the detonation of several million megaton-type H bombs. The area of ruin, which would be irrevocable, could encompass an entire continent.

All one can make out of that is that this growing deterministic society which proposes to rule the universe is proving why it should never be allowed to do so. It seems bent on universal ruin in the belief that it is integrating something. It is about time the world traded in its paranoia for a couple dozen tranquilizers.

The Deeper Problem

One-fourth of the New York contractors compromised their wage-hour issue with the electrical union. The latter got a 5 hour work day. It asked for a 4 hour day. It also got a 10 per cent wage increase.

Three-fourths of the contractors offered a wage increase only, the old longer work day and are still enduring strike conditions.

The issues in particular are of less concern here than is the deeper significance of a national trend so noticeable in the negotiations.

Essentially, one must conclude, there is an oversupply of electrical workers and the effort to spread the work with upward wage adjustments indicates that the doctrine of a fair day's work for a fair day's wage is giving away. The objective is becoming something more akin to the creation of an Indian caste system than a constructive labor movement. One cannot call it feather bedding for that is a matter of demanding pay for being present rather than for performing useful work.

The remedy for this diversion from the original intentions of organized labor does not appear to find itself in negotiations between the unions and the employers. But it suggests that in this highly efficient time with increasing automation the supply of potential workers is increasing while the demand for them is decreasing. If these ratios are not brought into line with reality the weight of the increasing overburden charged up to the economy can suffocate progress and bring our society, not into that dazzling new age, but into dull poverty and defeat. The question needs attention on a broad base, free of partisanship and passion.

Americans Not Satisfied

According to a report released by President Kennedy the American people are not satisfied with the state of national affairs and are determined to make the nation an even better place in which to live. Reports from last November's regional White House conferences, he said, showed "a strong demand for federal action in numerous areas.

The conferences, he said, "sought to bring the federal government closer to the people and to stimulate an exchange of ideas that would help America move forward." In these words are the seeds of a thought that might not have occurred to many people. Federal programs are often attacked with references to big government and with the implication that we should stop asking Uncle Sam to do things for us.

But the fallacy there is that it is not entirely Uncle Sam that is involved. Essentially, it is the American people who are doing things and only use the government as an agent to carry out their desires. It is as though a group of people band together and hire an attorney to do some job for them. Too often, it seems, we tend to think of the federal government as something with which we are or should be in competition.

It is granted that government can easily become something quite a bit more than an agent. It can become a dictator as it has in many places but it will not automatically become this simply because it performs certain functions for the people. It is when people misuse their government, not use it, that the stage becomes set for problems that might not have been anticipated. There is little cause to fear government so long as it carries out the wishes of the people and the people make their wishes clearly known.

Fighter Helps Delinquent Kids

WASHINGTON—Floyd Patterson, world's heavyweight boxing champion, was sitting in a White House anteroom waiting to see the President of the United States.

The President was seeing a succession of callers—the new foreign minister of the Dominican Republic, an ambassador from Nationalist China. Patterson, who had arrived early, sat in a corner of the room, very silent.

"Are you more nervous before a big fight or before seeing the President?" I asked.

"Before seeing the President," he said.

"Can you sleep before a fight?"

"Yes, I sleep all right, I've gotten used to that. Training makes me comfortably tired. After a day of working out I always feel like going to bed in the evening. But if I have to spend the day in an office answering the telephone and talking to people, then I am really tired."

He didn't say so but the implication was that meeting a lot of bigwigs in Washington had been more wearing than a workout in the ring.

Before we called at the White House, the Negro boy who pulled himself up from the sidewalks of Brooklyn to become one of the great fighters and clean livers of the current sports world had called to see some of the people he admires most in Washington.

The first was Attorney General Kennedy who has led the federal fight against juvenile delinquency. Floyd had come to Washington in connection with Big Brothers Week, and the two talked briefly about juvenile problems.

Kennedy has established "halfway houses," or homes for juveniles just out of correctional institutions, so they won't drift back to crime.

Floyd Patterson has done the same. As a boy he was sent by his mother to Wyltwick school in upstate New York, a correctional school, to get him off the streets of Brooklyn. Later, when he got out, Cus D'Amato, who ran the Gramercy Gym in lower East Side Manhattan, took Floyd under his wing and has been with him ever since.

Patterson talked about these problems very frankly.

"When boys come back from a delinquency school they may be thrown back into their old surroundings," he explained. "Their father may drink, or bad influences in the neighborhood may lead them astray. It's very easy to slip back into trouble.

"So I have helped establish the Patterson Houses. They are two houses in lower Manhattan where boys can live and get a fresh start in new surroundings. They will take care of 40 to 50 boys."

Floyd was too modest to say so, but he has contributed all the funds to establish these two homes for boys which open formally on Jan. 23. This was why he was giving a boost to Big Brothers, which follows the technique of having an older man take one boy under his wing for advice and guidance.

Sen. Dodd Allied With Katangists

WASHINGTON — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee decided against open hearings on the Congo situation because the news is better and they did not want to run the risk of upsetting the apple cart.

At the same time, they avoided what might have turned into an acid political struggle in which both parties could have been hurt. This is because senators of both parties are among the extreme right-wing critics of United Nations policy on secessionist Katanga.

It is rather unusual to find Democrats in power siding with the far right on international issues. But Sen. Thomas Dodd of Connecticut fills the bill and has lately ornamented the stages of right-wing rallies that have been stirring up the emotions of the American people.

He has been billed for at least one of these as vice-chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee. This is not true, he ranks sixth on that important committee below Chairman James Eastland of Mississippi. What is more important for purposes of faulting the State Department and the United Nations, he is a member—though its lowest-ranking Democrat—of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

When it is considered that he is also a member of the Aeronautical and Space Sciences Committee — seventh ranking below Chairman Robert Kerr — he cannot be lightly dismissed. This is good going for a senator only beginning the third year of his first term and with only two House terms under his belt.

It is a source of considerable bitterness among senators with greater fidelity to President Kennedy personally and to New Frontier policy. They attribute to it the fact that almost alone among influential Connecticut Democrats, Dodd supported Vice-President Lyndon Johnson, then Senate leader, for the presidential nomination.

Technically, Majority Leader Mike Mansfield made the Dodd appointment to Foreign Relations, an assignment barely less prized than a seat on Appropriations. As other Democrats see it, Mansfield was picking up Johnson IOU's, and how they felt about it appeared in their hostile reaction to Mansfield's proposal that the vice-president attend their caucuses.

But Dodd is there and traveling with the best of them. He was in the Congo recently and had been expected to promote the open hearings for which Sen. Albert Gore had called. Dodd did not, however, press for hearings now, a circumstance which almost cheered senators—if it is possible to be really cheerful about the Congo—as they concluded the Katanga case must be weaker than they thought.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, the Arizona conservtaive, has disclosed that he is a sponsor of the pro-Katanga committee which the State Department accuses of connections with the mining interests there.

THE NEIGHBORS SAY

Epidemic Of Winter Willies

By MONA B. PARKER

The old-timers have a test for heat, relates the Polk Progress. It's time-honored and usually good for a picture in the local paper. They see if an egg will fry on the sidewalk. If the egg sizzles, then it is known as "talking hot" weather.

The Progress thus decides that what has been enveloping the Midwest may very well be described as "cussing cold" weather.

With one of the coldest Decembers on record just past, Stan Samuelson figures in the Lyons Mirror-Sun that we are well on our way to some new kind of record for January, also. He's against this type of record . . .

"It would be much better to be able to tell my grandchildren that I recall the winter of 1962 as the warmest on record."

When a local couple from Oshkosh headed for Florida and the plane door was opened there, they were reported as balking at getting off, at all, figure the plane must have headed north by mistake instead of south.

The Garden County News explained it this way: "Cold in a place where warmth is promised has a way of being colder than lower temperatures in an area where cold is expected."

By the same token, the Howells Journal thinks we have little to complain about. Our temperatures are of heat wave proportions compared to some being experienced by native sons far afield.

Charles Fiala, serving at Fort Greely, Alaska, writes that the mercury dropped from 50 to 65 degrees below zero there and remained at that point for two weeks. In such cold, he said, exposed face and hands will freeze in less than a minute. Car tires freeze and break off in chunks and car batteries will freeze in a moving vehicle.

Perhaps, then, the Sutherland Courier wasn't joking when it said that Alaskans have one test for a cold spell. It isn't really cold there, they think, until you can throw hot water out the door and it freezes before it can cool off.

The Chadron Record thinks the only difference between now and the old days is that people simply don't dress to suit the weather as they once did. The old "long handles" are almost non-existent. Then, also, the outdoor travelers wore heavier outer clothing and shoes, heavy overcoats, buffalo lap robes and thick mittens.

"Who can remember those days, when perhaps only one or two rooms were heated in the winter, and bedrooms were cold as all outdoors? One would undress in the warmth of the stove, then make a mad dash for that cold, cold bed, doubling up in a tight knot under the icy covers until you got the danged place warm. . . . Today you turn down the radiator, turn up the electric blanket, and sleep in perfect comfort."

There's an old saying, also, that Bob Morris brings to mind in the Wymore Arbor State to the effect that long, hard winters are usually blessed with little sickness. But it hasn't proved out for Wymore. Schools nearly closed because of flu absences. Almost everyone has an unshakeable cold. And to top it all off, his printer has the mumps.

Even if the winter would modify now, he shivers, it would still be classed as a long, hard one.

The five-year-old son of Dick and Gwen Lindberg, of the Sargent Leader, has been practicing long and diligently on the manly art of being able to pucker up his lips and emit a whistle. And finally it reached culmination. It isn't that his mother isn't proud of his accomplishment. She is. It's just that "we wish he hadn't learned while sitting in church!"

Doctor For DeWitt

DeWitt, Neb.

We refer to your editorial, "No Doctor In Town," which appeared in The Star on January 16. Some of the points brought out in this article we will class as acceptable but, in the main, we think you have "missed the boat" completely and most certainly you have not been confronted with the problem of those people who live in the small towns and are really in need of a doctor to care for their physical well-being.

You cite that there is a definite need for the doctor to leave the small communities and migrate toward the more heavily populated centers because, there being more people, there is a better opportunity for livelihood. This is true to the point where the doctor population of a more populated area goes beyond the saturation point and the rural areas are left with a grossly insufficient number of physicians. We ask you, why should an area containing from 3,500 to 4,000 inhabitants be completely dependent upon one doctor who lives in an adjacent area which in itself has a population of from 1,500 to 2,000 people who are also dependent upon him?

We think that the medical schools themselves together with statements such as yours in your editorial have had much to do with bringing about situations such as we now have. We are correct in stating that heretofore medical students have been advised and encouraged to specialize, but there is now an awakening to the need for the general practitioner. The system of specialization has forced the young intern to locate in the larger centers where there are larger clinics and hospitals for them to practice in their chosen fields of medicine and surgery. As a result, according to authoritative information we have obtained, there is an overpopulation of specialists in these centers and many of them are making no more than a decent living. The purpose of the clinic in the smaller communities is to allow the young intern to establish his own practice and be his own boss. Also, he can take some of the load off of the larger clinics and his patients have the satisfaction of being closer to home and their loved ones. Furthermore, he will be welcomed on the staff of our nearby hospitals and can, perhaps, cultivate a better social and civic life than he can in a city.

You state that, in your opinion, the residents of the small towns and communities would resent the idea of a physician is having an income of $20,000 to $40,000 per year. This is not true. DeWitt since the first settlement of the town has supported from one to four doctors whose incomes were perhaps the highest individual incomes of the town. We know of no one who resented the fact that our last doctor was able to drive a Cadillac car; rather they were very happy that he could do this and have in reserve a four-wheel traction jeep that would get him to places inaccessible to his Cadillac. No one resented the fact that he was able to purchase a few farms or that, since he was forced to discontinue his practice because of personal health, he and his wife can live in the warm climate near Palm Springs, California, in safe security. The people of this community are very happy that they were privileged to have this doctor in our community for 28 years to minister to them when his services were needed and to be looked upon as a leader in the community.

True, "you can't force young doctors into rural areas" and perhaps "the storybook version of the small town doctor does not appeal to them," but the fact remains that the rural population is as deserving of good medical care as the city dweller. The sad part of the matter is that the small community must outbid the populated centers to get one. If the medical student of today is taught that a human life in the country is just as important as a human life in the city, the doctor situation will gradually mitigate to the point where both rural and city communities will be more equitably served.

They are constantly asking for a decentralization of government. Of equal importance is a decentralization of the medical situation. What is needed is more doctors such as Doc Adams of "Gunsmoke" who are more dedicated to their Hypocratic oath and who are humble and sincere in the eyes of their fellow men. For such doctors, they can be assured that in the small community, they will not starve to death and if their incomes should reach $100,000 per year, no one is going to resent it.

COMMITTEE ON MEDICAL PLANNING, DEWITT CIVIC CLUB

Editor's Note: The editorial referred to did not say there was "a definite need" for doctors to leave the small communities. Such a statement is obviously ridiculous on the face of it. The remainder of the editorial was in no way against a doctor's going to DeWitt or any other small town but simply an effort to explain some of the reasons for the failure of doctors to so locate themselves. The editor stands corrected on the matter of resentment and would just mention that it was pointed out only as a possibility and as a generality, not specifically in regard to DeWitt. We are very hopeful that DeWitt finds a doctor and are confident that he could be very happy there and successful in all respects.

New Concord, Ohio, Wild Over Astronaut Glenn

By ADRIENNE BLOCK

New Concord, Ohio (AP) — New Concord has 2,127 residents and one astronaut.

And the one is the biggest thing that's ever happened to the 2,127 others.

The motorist on U.S. 40 intent on his travel 70 miles west to Columbus, or 61 miles east to Wheeling, W.Va., might hardly notice he had passed New Concord. But, if he slows down a bit, he'll notice the highway signs which proclaim: "New Concord, O., home of John H. Glenn Jr., Mercury Astronaut."

Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. is the astronaut scheduled to orbit the earth next week.

38 Years

The Glenns and their family have lived in New Concord for 38 years. Everyone in town knows them. Everyone knows the big white frame house that sits on the corner of Ohio 76 and Westview Drive, where the astronaut's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Glenn Sr., still reside. Some even remember the house when it was on main street.

"It was the strangest thing you'd ever imagine," recalled Mrs. James K. Taylor, the mayor's wife. "The new road was coming through and the Glenns just had that great big house put on the biggest roller I've ever seen and moved up hill."

Ask about Lt. Col. Glenn and the people in New Concord are bound to say: "Oh sure, I know Johnny." And anyone who's been in the village any length of time does.

Unusual

"I suppose it seems unusual to some people," explains his mother. "But John grew up here, went to grade school and high school here and even went to college here. I suppose most boys leave their home town to go to college, but John stayed right home and went to Muskingum."

There is an undercurrent of excitement in the village as the big day approaches, but few outward signs that the world's attention will be focused on its favorite son next week.

Miss Margaret Barnett at New Concord High School, who taught English and Latin to the astronaut, remembers him as a pleasant young man and a pretty good student.

Good Humor

His typing teacher, Miss Edith Givens, recalls his good humor. "You could tease him and he'd join in the joke," she says. "Some students can't take it, but John was lots of fun."

The teachers remember John and Annie Castor, the girl who became Mrs. Glenn. "It was always John and Annie," said H. A. Steele, teacher and former principal of the high school. "I don't even remember him dating anyone else."

Mayor Taylor said the town has been following young Glenn's activities closely since he began piling up outstanding combat records both in World War II, in the Marshall Islands, and in Korea.

In Korea, fellow airmen nicknamed him the "MIG Mad Marine," and his crewmen painted that legend in big letters on the side of his Sabrejet.

"When he was chosen as one of the 7 astronauts," Mayor Taylor said, "we figured it was something John could do. We prayed for the other two men who took the space flights. But we'll have more feeling in it this time.

"John's one of our folks."

PRODUCTION CREDIT ASSN. REPORTS RECORD BUSINESS

A record volume of business in 1961 was reported by the Lincoln Production Credit Assn. Thursday to more than 300 stockholders attending the 28th annual meeting.

Secretary - Treasurer Dwayne Dietze said the all-time high volume came when 379 loans were made to farmers for $4,805,000.

Association activity also includes the financing of accounts receivable for 11 supply cooperatives in the area served by the LPCA, Dietze reported.

Vice - President Everett Clark of Unadilla, said the organization increased its capital $70,000 during 1961 and that the need for more capital was continuing.

Dr. Merle E. Betts of Omaha, director of information and research, Farm Credit Banks, said observations of Western Europe indicate continued problems for U.S. farm exports in that area.

Betts reported that cooperatives play an important part in Western European agriculture with farmers working together in marketing and purchasing to improve their economic position.

Lloyd Bevans of Waverly was re-elected a director of the association. Other directors and officers are R. L. Kaliff of York, president; Clark, vice-president; Mrs. Ruth P. Gard of Beaver Crossing and Fred Wedeking of Geneva, directors.

Morrison Has No Comment On Special Session

Gov. Frank Morrison said Thursday he was not yet prepared to comment on the need for a possible special session of the Legislature if a Fremont court decision in a power suit is permitted to stand.

The Dodge County District Court held last week, in effect, that a power customer can choose his supplier.

Omaha Public Power District and the Fremont municipal utility had decided that the Dawson County Feed Products Co. mill being built at the edge of Fremont should be served by Fremont. The firm, however, obtained a writ or mandamus requiring OPPD to serve it.

Members of the Nebraska Public Power Committee, created by the Legislature, have been trying to work out service area agreements where two or more power agencies are in competition or overlapping. Committee members have voiced fears that the Fremont ruling makes these service area agreements of little worth.

The suggestion that a special session of the Legislature may be needed to give force and effect to the service area agreements—assuming the Dodge County District Court decision is not reversed—came from Frank Phelps, Grand Island utilities commissioner and member of the committee.

Ford frees you forever from the expense and bother of frequent car servicing.
Twice-a-year maintenance is here-and only the cars from Ford have it!

In a new Ford Galaxie or Fairlane, the odometer rolls off a long 6,000 miles between every service stop. Compare this with other '62 cars and here's what you'll find: many cars still have to check in for service every 1,000 miles; some every 2,000 miles; others every 4,000 miles. Only the cars from Ford need service only twice a year, or every 6,000 miles. You save time, save money.

Like another famous Ford first—the 12-month or 12,000-mile warranty*—twice-a-year maintenance is dramatic evidence of the superior quality built into Ford cars. Just one stop every 6,000 miles takes care of servicing. You'll go 30,000 miles between major lubrications, 6,000 miles between oil changes and minor lubrications, 2 years or 30,000 miles without changing engine coolant-antifreeze. Brakes adjust themselves.

Kennedy Says His Farm Plan Could Slice Costs

Washington (UPI) — President Kennedy told Congress Thursday that passage of his farm legislation this session could cut the government's agricultural spending by about $540 million.

In his budget message, Kennedy listed Agriculture Department spending for the coming fiscal year at $7.25 billion — a record amount. But this, he estimated could be whittled to $6.71 billion if Congress enacts the program he will submit later.

A major saving of $434 million would be made, the President said, by adopting his recommendations for revamping the programs for wheat, feed grains and dairy products. They will be spelled out for Congress in a special message.

Dairy Controls

An administration official predicted a proposed marketing control plan for dairy products would save two-third of the $434 million. New production control programs for wheat and feed grains would provide the other one-third.

The President's budget message also had these other farm proposals:

—Overhaul of the sugar act which would eliminate the 2.5 cents a pound bonus the United States pays foreign suppliers. He estimated this would net $180 million for the treasury in fiscal 1963.

—A 150% increase in the food stamp program for needy persons. The operation which benefits low income families in depressed areas would be allotted $50 million in the new budget compared to $20 million at present. The President said results of the pilot program in 8 communities was "encouraging" and new areas should be added.

—A bookkeeping change involving the loan program of the Rural Electrification Administration (REA). Loan repayments would go to the Agriculture Department for use in making new loans. In the past, such repayments have gone into the Treasury Department's miscellaneous funds.

This year's Agriculture Department budget was estimated at $7.2 billion. If his program is passed, Kennedy said, the new spending would be $468 million less than this year. If Congress balks, he indicated, the costs would be about $71 million more.

The President reported that 4 of every 5 dollars he wants to spend for agriculture would go to maintain farm income. Help farmers make production adjustments, utilize current farm abundance constructively at home and abroad, particularly in the food for peace program!

Confined

The President confined himself to a straight financial accounting in the farm section of his budget and did not go at all deeply into his long-range agriculture theories.

Here were some of the detailed requests he made for his programs:

Price support, supply and related programs, $2.5 billion; special export programs, $1.8 billion; research, $380 million; REA, $370.3 million; conservation reserve, $323.1 million; Forest Service, $271.2 million; Soil Conservation Service, $181 million; school lunch, $170 million; special milk, $101 million; removal of surplus agricultural commodities and food stamp, $235 million; agricultural conservation program, $250 million, with advance authorization of $150 million; Farmers Home Administration, $198.5 million.

Bowen Nixes Knight's Special Session Ideas

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

Sen. Kenneth L. Bowen of Red Cloud, chairman of the Legislative Council Tax Study Committee, said Thursday he would be "opposed" to calling a special session to study broadening of Nebraska's tax base.

Sen. George A. Knight of Lincoln has suggested he would favor a special session for this purpose within 60 days.

Knight is a member of the tax study committee.

Sen. Bowen said he would not favor a special session because he does not believe anything could be accomplished in such a relatively short period of time.

"It's the duty of our study committee to gather all the information we can on tax matters, and make recommendations to the next Legislature on whether we believe any changes are necessary and what they should be," Bowen said.

Bowen, who filed for reelection this week, said in his filing statement that he favors equalizing Nebraska taxes.

Knight's suggestion for a special session was made in a letter to the Grand Island Businessman's Breakfast Club which had sent letters to each of the senators outlining its opposition to the University of Nebraska's tax workshops to be conducted this spring.

Knight said a special session "would have the advantage of a singleness of purpose divorced from all other issues and bring to an immediate head the problem that has been at issue for many years."

He suggested that tax experts could be brought in to present evidence on the effect of each type tax on Nebraska's economy.

Knight, who has not yet decided whether he will seek a second legislative term, said he personally is opposed to a sales tax, but supports a state income tax.

No. Platte Paper Claims Interstate Change Probable

North Platte (AP) — The Telegraph-Bulletin says it has learned the State Highway Advisory Commission probably will disapprove the south Interstate highway route from Brady west to Big Springs when it meets next Monday in Lincoln.

The newspaper quoted what it termed reliable sources as saying the commission will recommend the study of a north route which will incorporate much of U.S. 30 into the Interstate and turn over the rest to the counties involved.

Gov. Frank Morrison has said he will sustain whatever decision the commission makes.

Originally the Highway Department recommended a route south of the Platte River. Hearings on this route were held in December.

Washington (AP) — The Interior Department announced Thursday the granting of a distinguished service award to George H. Taylor of Lincoln.

He was one of 25 present and former employes to receive the award—highest honor conferred on department employes in recognition of outsanding service or scientific contributions.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall and other members of the secretariat were to present the awards to the recipients or their representatives Thursday afternoon.

State Being Studied For Minutemen

By the Associated Press

The Air Force confirmed that surveys are underway in Nebraska as well as in Colorado and Wyoming for Minuteman missile launching sites.

The sites would be part of a complex grouped around Francis E. Warren Air Force Base in Cheyenne.

Army Engineer representatives have been working in Cheyenne and Kimball counties where sources said they had been told the engineers were surveying for Minuteman sites.

Assessor's office employes in Sidney said they were told sites on both sides of U.S. Highway 30 were being considered.

Reorganization Of Knox County Schools Passed

The State Committee for the Reorganization of School Districts approved, with one reservation, a Knox County reorganization plan for the Niobrara area.

The plan would create a new class III (kindergarten through the 12th grade) district and dissolve school districts 6, 9, 69, 87, 91, 92, 107, 144, 1(Niobrara) and would include portions of districts 90 (Verdel), 94, 101 and 131.

The committee recommended the plan be brought to a vote with the exclusion of the portion of district 90.

The proposed new district would have a valuation of $2,826,029 with an enrollment of 340 students.

In other action, the committee approved a petition plan from Harlan County to dissolve district 83 and attach it to district R-3 (Orleans).

Not receiving committee approval were petition plans to:

—Dissolve district 65 in Boone County and attach it to district 62 in Madison County.

—Dissolve district 24 and attach it to district 10 (Elkhorn). Both are in Douglas County.

—Dissolve district 14 in Douglas County and attach it to district 10.

Chicago Cops Hope For First 'Win' In 20 Years

. . . Quiz Syndicate Triggerman

Chicago (UPI) — Investigators flew to Detroit Thursday to question a crime syndicate triggerman who confessed a role in the gang-style assassination of labor reformer John A. Kilpatrick.

Authorities hoped that the confession of William Triplett, 27, would pay off in the first solution of a Chicago gangland slaying in 20 years.

State's Attorney Daniel Ward assigned one of his key assistants, Benjamin Mackoff, to sift through the confession of Triplett. It was included in a voluminous report the FBI gave local authorities Wednesday, capping a 3-month federal investigation.

Interview

Mackoff and two investigators immediately headed for Detroit to interview Triplett.

Chicago Chief of Detectives Maurice Begner said that if the state's attorney's office "thinks the confession will stand up, they will take immediate steps to extradite" Triplett and an uncle whom he implicated in the gangland-ride killing.

Begner confirmed he had a gun which might have been used in the slaying of Kilpatrick, 55-year-old president of the strife-torn United Industrial Workers of America (UIWA), last Oct. 20.

The detective chief, indicated, however, that he felt the killing was "far from solved" and that much detective spade work remained to be done.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover promised that the FBI would lend its resources to Chicago authorities in prosecution of the killers. The Justice Department decided that they could not be brought to trial under any federal statute.

Kilpatrick was left dead, a bullet wound behind his left ear, in his dynamite-wired automobile two blocks from his union headquarters.

Ordered

Triplett said in his confession that Kilpatrick's slaying was ordered by an organizer for convicted labor racketeer Angelo Inciso, Kilpatrick's former boss in the UIWA.

Kilpatrick testified for the government against Inciso in a union insurance fraud trial. Inciso was convicted and is serving a 10-year term in a federal penitentiary.

NFO Only Hope For Family Type Farm—Cooper

Nebraska City—"The NFO (National Farm Organization) is the only hope for the 'family type' farm in my opinion," Msgr. Dan E. Cooper of Wahoo told a 4-state area NFO meeting here. Nearly 400 farmers attended.

"I urge you people, members and non-members, to seek out the truth about the NFO," he advised. "The Catholic Rural Life has made a thorough investigation of this organization, and recommends it very highly."

Mrs. Ed Mowinkle of Gretna urged NFO women to take greater part in activities. "Remember ladies," she said, "this farming business is a family operation. Let's help our menfolk along."

Ted Wilson of Weeping Water, district NFO president, and Ellis Liesemeyer of Avoca, vice president, were joint masters of ceremonies. Harold Woodward of Bethany, Mo., helped arrange the meeting and the program.

Budget Contains Too Many Ifs, Declares Hruska

Washington (AP) — Sen. Roman Hruska of Nebraska said Thursday there are too many ifs in President Kennedy's proposed budget.

"This budget sent to us is precariously balanced. It makes many very optimistic assumptions regarding a flourishing economy and passage of legislation to produce additional revenue," Hruska said.

Hruska recalled charges against former President Eisenhower in the letters last year when "he presented a balanced budget with some of the same optimism, including Kennedy's own statements about this in a March 24 message to Congress."

"The same grounds for Kennedy's criticism are now directly applicable to him. There are still too many ifs: If the postal rate increase is enacted; if the economic situation is good; if the international situation becomes no worse; if the agricultural estimates are correct.

"Only time, of course, will tell whether the President himself has presented a balanced budget or one full of rosy promises," Hruska said.

Dr. Gilmore, Kearney, Files For Power Post

Dr. R. M. Gilmore of Kearney filed with the secretary of state Thursday as a candidate for director of the Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation District in the May 15 primary.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

Driving down Hollywood Boulevard the other morning and scraped the side of my rented car.

Am now filling in the forms.

"Just fill these in," said the rent-a-car lady at the airport when I got back. "Mail them to the adjustor."

The forms are interesting—I paid a dollar a day for the insurance. But it did not insure me against the forms.

The forms must be filled in on 5 copies.

They must be signed and witnessed.

"Condition of road at time of accident." I put down, "Road good. Hollywood Boulevard is usually a good road and I think there is an ancient law that forbids you to drive sheep on it.'

You cannot ask for a finer accident report than that. And I hope it will soften the adjustor's heart.

"Condition of driver." To explain this, they put after it in parentheses (sober, had been drinking, intoxicated).

Well, I had not been drinking—I was just coming to the hotel. I may have intended to have a nip before dinner. Tired and all that. But I had not touched a drop.

I put down, "Sober." As an afterthought, I put in "and industrious."

There was a good deal of fine print about witnesses.

Had I ever had fainting spells? Vision with and without glasses—that kind of thing. It keeps adjustors happy. And I think, they always figure you might slip.

As a further man of good will, I informed the bookie who books my insurance.

"That is extremely bad news," he said adjusting a claim and shorting a few widows and orphans.

"How so is it bad news, bookie? I am paid up and in good standing. I hold the policy."

The insurance man sighed and opened the instruction book. "In the fine print—which I hope you have read," he said, "we must up the rates when you clobber another auto."

"I did not clobber the auto. bookie. He clobbered me, I had just made the turn and—."

"In the insurance business—(the heart and backbone of American free enterprise, by the way)—we do not look at it that way. We do not judge, neither do we condemn," said the bookie sternly. "We do not pay off on acts of God or the public enemy. But on all other counts, Love-the-People Mutual is ready with the old ready.

"The point," said the broker, "is that we must watch out for carelessness. We have many investors depending on our sober judgment — our company is mainly owned by small retired businessmen, widows, orphans and veterans.

"If you clobber cars, we must up the rates to take care of your spendthrift ways."

"But you did not get hurt, bookie," I said. "I had the insurance on another booking layoff. Even a competitor. I broke his rice bowl a little. You should thank me."

"As I figure it with the old ballpoint," he said, "we must ask you to up the payment $51.56. This keeps you in good graces with the management and the investors. And gives us all comfort to sleep of nights.

"Goodbye," said the broker shaking my hand, "and feel free to drop in anytime. We will send a desk calendar at Christmas and good wishes. All embossed with our motto: 'If you are insured with Love-the-People, you can rest assured.' "

Frontier Lines '61 Subsidy Topped $6 Million

North Platte (AP) — A civil Aeronautics Board hearing on an application by Hi-Plains Airways to serve 5 states came to an end in North Platte early Thursday afternoon.

Examiner Richard Walsh set Feb. 19 as the deadline for filing of briefs in the case.

A representative of the Bureau of Economic Regulation of the CAB testified Thursday the Frontier Airlines subsidy for operation last year was more than $6 million.

Edwin Saltry told a CAB hearing on an application of Hi-Plains Airways for authority to provide small plane air service to 46 communities in 5 states the exact Frontier figure was $6,016,847 for the year ended June 30.

In the testimony on comparative data for local air service carriers conducting scheduled certificate flight operations exclusively with small aircraft, he brought out the subsidy figures.

Saltry said Central Air Lines, which also seeks service in two states with small planes, had a subsidy of $3,429,302. The subsidy for Hi-Plains segment over the route including Kearney, Hastings, Lincoln and Omaha was estimated at $137,007 for one year.

In testimony on Monday, a Frontier Airlines representative had claimed if the Hi-Plains application was granted, the subsidy would be about $2 million annually.

Saltry also gave comparative data on traffic surveys, regional and local expenses for local air carriers.

Walts Back On Stand

C. E. Walts, president of Hi-Plains, was cross-examined briefly by William J. Driscoll, attorney for the Bureau of Economic Regulation.

The questioning followed a line relative to expenses of personnel as to meals and lodging, flight operations, costs and amount of money to be allowed for mechanics pre-flight plane checks.

Saltry had testified Monday it is the position of the bureau that public convenience and necessity does not require certification of either Hi-Plains or Central Airlines of Fort Worth, Tex., to provide small plane service in the Midwest.

Rush Clarke, special assistant to the Nebraska attorney general, asked Saltry if he had considered testimony given at the current hearing before stating the bureau's position, and Saltry answered "no."

Saltry said the decision was based on facts and figures obtained prior to the hearing. He said the bureau necessarily was more concerned with the over-all picture, than with the individual communities, but he noted that a small community is just as much entitled to subsidized air service as is a large community.

Central has asked for approval of service similar to the Hi-Plains proposal in Kansas and Colorado.

Falls City Teachers Receive Pay Raises

The board extended the salary schedule tenure from 10 to 11 years, providing a maximum for teachers with bachelor's degrees of $4,650 and a high for teachers with master's degrees of $5,050.

Blue Shield Aged Plan Acceptance Here Seen

Omaha (AP) — Prospects for Nebraska Blue Shield participation in a nationwide low-cost medical and surgical insurance plan for the aged are excellent, William H. Heavey, executive director of Blue Cross-Blue Shield of Nebraska, said Thursday.

Blue Shield and the American Medical Association both have recommended that their affiliates approve the plan, announced Wednesday.

Heavey said this proposal will be presented to the Nebraska Blue Shield directors meeting next Wednesday and he is hopeful of approval.

However, he said, the Nebraska Medical Association first must approve the service agreement under which its members would accept the fees provided by the Blue Cross as full payment for services under the conditions of the contract.

This may be done either by the Nebraska state Medical Association policy committee or, if the policy committee feels it advisable it may be held for action by the association's House of Delegates.

The principal task, he said, will be to establish a scale of relative charges which would fall within the limits of the proposed plan. Nebraska physicians adopted a schedule of charges last year, which could be adjusted to fit the new proposal.

Heavey noted that under the proposed program Blue Shield would pay full cost of medical-surgical services for a husband and wife with a combined income of $4,000 or less. Nebraska now has a family contract available based on an income of $4,200 or less. This would indicate there should be comparatively little difficulty in adapting Nebraska charges to conform to the national plan.

Pipeline Flow Sets A Record

Tulsa, Okla. (AP) — A record one day delivery through 8 terminals of 89,200 barrels—about 3.75 million gallons—of LP gas was reached Jan. 11 by Mid-America Pipeline Co., the firm said.

Two new pumping stations on the west leg of the line, near Abilene, Kan., and Beatrice, Neb., are now in operation. These two stations increase capacity on the west leg to 49,000 barrels daily and on the two legs north of Conway, Kan. to 84,000 barrels daily.

Mid-America extends from the New Mexico-Texas line to Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas.

30 Counties Hold Demo Third District Strength

More than 80% of the Democratic congressional vote of the new Third District will be found in 30 of the area's 59 counties, a Democratic voting pattern survey indicates.

"Obviously, the greatest campaign effort and the most intensive work on party organization should take place in these counties," a preliminary report states.

"Both these problems are somewhat simplified by the reduced number of counties in which really exhaustive work must be done.

"In a district as large as the Third, this can be a real benefit."

The report — authored by University of Omaha Professor R. R. Beauchesne—was presented to members of the Democratic state executive committee at a meeting in Omaha.

Vote Projected

Using "conservative estimates" of the basic Democratic congressional vote over the past 12 years, Beauchesne projects a minimum Democratic Third District congressional vote of 61,825 in the 1962 election.

"These estimates make no allowance for the candidate, the issues, the extent of party organization or the campaign itself," his report states.

The new Third District is composed of the old Fourth District's 38 counties, 16 First District counties and 5 from the old Third.

The 16 old First District counties "constitute a real addition to the Democratic strength of the new Third District," the report points out.

The geographical proximity of the 10 strongest Democratic counties from the old First "is something that could be useful in campaigning," it states.

The report also notes that a study of voting trends indicates that "much serious rethinking about the role of cities in Democratic voting is necessary."

The relationship is "so slight as to destroy entirely the idea that the bigger the city, the greater will be the Democratic percentage of the popular vote," it concludes.

In the 1962 campaign, "the greatest opportunity for increasing the Democratic congressional vote lies in those (30) counties which are already areas of relative Democratic strength," according to Beauchesne.

The thirty include Adams, Antelope, Boone, Box Butte, Buffalo, Cherry, Cheyenne, Clay, Custer, Dawes, Dawson, Franklin, Furnas, Hall, Hamilton, Holt, Howard, Kearney, Keith, Kimball, Lincoln, Merrick, Morrill, Nuckolls, Phelps, Red Willow, Scottsbluff, Sherman, Valley and Webster.

Ted Reeves Files For Legislature In 30th District

Ted C. Reeves, Central City farmer, filed with the secretary of state as a candidate for the Legislature from the 30th District.

Reeves is a member of the board of managers of the Nebraska Baptist State Convention and has a cattle ranch in Howard County as well as his Merrick County farm. He also is concluding his second term on the Nebraska Water Pollution Council.

Reeves is opposed by incumbent Sen. Marvin Lautenschlager of Grand Island and George H. Clayton, also of Grand Island.

PARK SERVICE OFFICE SHIFT IS POSTPONED

Gov. Frank Morrison said Thursday he has been informed that the proposal to move the regional office of the National Park Service from Omaha to Cheyenne, Wyo. has been postponed, pending further investigation.

Information of the postponement came in a letter from Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall who said he had requested the National protests.

Morrison said that 5 of the 6 governors he contacted in the 10-state region involved have voiced their support of Nebraska's efforts to retain the headquarters.

The governors of Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas and North Dakota supported Morrison's position. Gov. Archie Gubbrud of South Dakota has not yet decided which location he favors.

Republican Would Be Governor If . . .

The existence and use of a new Republican campaign training program in the 1960 elections would have elected a GOP governor in Nebraska, a national report indicates.

It also would have resulted in the election of Richard Nixon, 3 more GOP senators, 33 6 other Republican governors, the GOP congressional campaign committee reported.

The projections are based on an additional 4.4% Republican vote.

That additional percentage is what has been obtained through the use of pilot operations of a training program called Mobilization of Republican Enterprise (MORE).

The program has been used in Connecticut and parts of New York during 1961, the committee reported.

Results Startling

Results, Rep. Bob Wilson of California noted, have been "politically startling." The over-all vote improvement for Republican candidates was 4.4%.

MORE makes use of trained armies of volunteer Republican campaign workers.

Nationwide, a 4.4% GOP increase would have shifted 154 electoral votes in the 1960 presidential election.

In Nebraska, it would have resulted in 81,425 additional voters, the report stated. An estimated 243,905 eligible Nebraska voters did not go to the polls in 1960, it said.

Peterson Speaks At Wesleyan

Val Peterson, Vice Chairman of the Board of the J. M. McDonald Co., of Hastings, will deliver the 6th annual Founders Day address at Nebraska Wesleyan University Friday.

The former Nebraska educator and newspaper editor who later became governor of the State of Nebraska and Ambassador to Denmark, will discuss a subject pertinent to higher education at the international level.

Also to be featured at the ceremonies will be the awarding of Distinguished Citizen citations to two prominent Nebraskans.

Dean of the College Dr. Sam Dahl will present the citations in the absence of Wesleyan President Dr. Vance D. Rogers who is ill.

No Dull Moments In Suburbia

MEADOW LANE

Bridge players are starting the new year off by getting their clubs back in session after the festive, but tiring, holiday season.

One club meeting this week was held at the home of Mrs. Marion Packett on Thursday evening. Members attending, all hoping for a grand slam of course, were Mrs. Robert Taylor, Mrs. Dean McMurtree, Mrs. Kenneth Derman, Mrs. Helen Klaas, Mrs. H. L. Graham, Mrs. John Reta, and Mrs. A. P. Samuels.

Another card party has been planned for tomorrow evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Mortensen. The guest list will include Mr. and Mrs. Donald Towle and Mr. and Mrs. William Sears.

The group meets monthly for dessert and an evening of cards—not bridge, however, but a game called "Five Hundred."

There are also guests to mention this morning who are visiting in the suburb. Mr. ond Mrs. Delbert Prange, we understand, are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Smith. Mr. and Mrs. Prange arrived a week ago from their home in Phoenix, Ariz., to visit Mrs. Prange's brother-in-law and sister. The Prange will be in the Lincoln area about a month visiting friends and relatives.

Learned that residents are leaving the suburbs also. Maj. A. P. Samuels left on Wednesday to spend five weeks in Vandenburg, Calif., where he will take part in a missile training program.

Also leaving the suburb recently, but only for a day, were Mr. and Mrs. Ron Spaulding and their four daughters. Mrs. Spaulding and his family went to Omaha on Sunday where they spent the day visiting Mr. and Mrs. Niels Wodder and their family. The Wodder family formerly resided in Meadow Lane and moved to Omaha recently.

While we are speaking of the Spaulding family, we might mention that there was a birthday celebrated recently in the family. Nanette Spaulding was eight years old on Tuesday, Jan. 16, and, since no one can complain about celebrating a birthday even a little early, Nanette had her birthday party on Saturday, Jan. 13.

Thirteen of her contemporaries spent the afternoon at the Spaulding home playing games, followed by refreshments which included a rather special cake—a snowman.

Another birthday celebration in the suburb will be held tomorrow afternoon. The party will mark the seventh birthday anniversary of Charles Schisler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Schisler Jr. Charles's 10 guests will attend a movie and return to the Schisler home for ice cream and cake.

EASTBOROUGH

Since we have been talking about birthday parties we must mention one which took place recently in Eastborough.

On Friday, Jan. 5, Bryan Patrick Spale, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Spale, was four years old and was honored at a very special type of party. Bryan and his 20 guests celebrated the occasion by becoming television stars for the afternoon when they appeared on the Wayne West Cartoon Party television program and, we understand, it was quite exciting for all those involved. Following the television debut, the group returned to the Spale home for refreshments and Bryan's birthday cake—baked in the shape of a hobby horse.

There is a new resident in Eastborough who arrived on Thursday, Jan. 11. She is Margaret Ann Robinson, the baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Robinson. Margaret Ann has a brother, David, 20 months old, and her grandparents are the Rev. and Mrs. Marcus Gerike of Osmond, and Mr. and Mrs. William Robinson of London, England.

We also understand that there has been a guest in the suburb this past week visiting at the home of Lt. and Mrs. Donald J. Jensen. Mrs. Jensen's mother, Mrs. Kenneth L. King, arrived last Saturday and will be in the suburb until Sunday when she will leave for her home in Middletown, Pa.

Eastborough is not without its bridge parties, also. On Wednesday evening, Mrs. Dell Bopp was hostess at her home at a dessert-bridge for seven of her friends. Those attending were Mrs. Paul Scheele, Mrs. Willard L. Thompson, Mrs. James V. Drew, Mrs. E. Lisle Robinette, Mrs. Keith Erlewine, Mrs. Lester H. Noble, Jr., and Mrs. Jack J. Budler.

News Of Mary Doyle: Brides: And Parties

From New York City this morning came a note and a clipping. Our thanks to the former Lincoln resident who thought we might be interested in Lincoln's Mary Doyle, and her success at one of New York City's best off-Broadway theaters—the Circle in the Square.

Currently in production at Circle in the Square are three of Thornton Wilder's "Plays for Bleecker Street." Miss Doyle is appearing in "Infancy," and is giving a fine performance, according to the New York Times review in which Miss Doyle is highly praised. The Times also carried a three column picture of four members of the cast — including Miss Doyle.

The success of one member of the Doyle family led us to check on another Doyle—David—who also is in the theater. Mr. Doyle seems to be keeping busy with TV, legitimate theater and such. His latest show, Dory Schary's "Something for a Soldier," starring Sal Mineo, somehow didn't appeal to the New York audiences and closed after a two weeks run. But before long you will be hearing again from Mr. Doyle.

Another bride in the news this morning—She is Miss Elizabeth Ellen Cherry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Byron Cherry of Larchmont, N.Y., and Alpha Chi Omega at Nebraska.

The attendants at the wedding of Miss Cherry and Kenneth D. Tenhulzen, which takes place on Jan. 27, will include the bride-elect's sister, Miss Jean Cherry of Larchmont, who is to be the maid of honor. Miss Wendy Cherry, also of Larchmont, will be [illegible] sister's junior bridesmaid, and the bridesmaids will be Miss Mary Ann Wetzel of Oklahoma City, and Miss Diane Yost.

Serving as best man will be Thomas Pospisil, and seating the guests will be Donald Skeen of Broken Bow; Richard Cherry of Larchmont, N.Y., brother of the bride, and her cousin, John Cherry.

Complimenting Miss Cherry last Sunday were Miss Diane Yost and Miss Susie Backstrom who entertained 16 guests at the home of Miss Yost. The soon-to-be bride was presented with a miscellaneous shower.

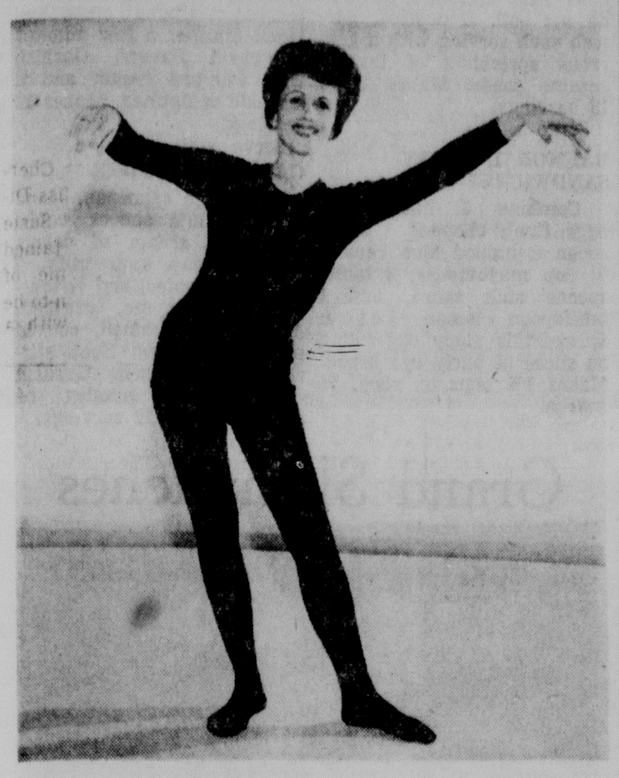
Why Grow Old?

"Lose Weight" Aids



Not the twist—but almost as much fun. It's a good idea to do this exercise while dieting. Keep knees straight and shoulders still as you move hips to the left as far as possible. Tighten seat, abdomen, thigh muscles. Now, shift to the right. This will trim the thighs.

Josephine Lowman

Here I am with a few more aids for those of you who want to lose weight, especially those of you who are following my 8-Week Self-Improvement Marathon.

1. Once you decide to lose those extra pounds, do not give in at all. Let the chips fall where they may, with friends and foes alike. Don't tell them what you are doing. Just say that you have a tummy ache, or have a blood cholesterol level which frightens both you and your doctor.

If you give in here and there on a short term reducing diet, you are sunk. For instance, on my 9-Day Reducing Diet you cannot take any liberties if you wish the diet to do what it can for you. If you are following my 8-Week Self-Improvement Marathon for a loss of 15 to 20 pounds in eight weeks, you cannot take MANY liberties. If you take ANY you probably will take TOO many!

2. You may experience a few hunger pangs during the first 10 days of your diet. Remember that if you are overweight, you have been eating more than you need, and that those layers of fat must supply some of your energy requirements if you are to lose weight. When you eat more than you need, your stomach becomes stretched and it takes a little time for it to return to normal size.

3. If you crave sweets, eat fresh fruit, especially some of the sweeter variety. You also can have one or two small pieces of hard candy after dinner. SMALL!

4. You can have celery and carrot sticks in between meals. These are filling and their calorie count is negligible.

5. You should exercise while dieting. It will redistribute your weight more attractively.

6. Look up the calorie count in cocktails. While the calories from alcohol are not stored as fat but are burned up rapidly, these provide energy which otherwise would have come from those fatty deposits you wish to lose.

If you missed my 8-Week Self-Improvement Marathon and would like to lose from 15 to 20 pounds in the next eight weeks, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the Marathon booklet to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Attendants Announced

Attending her sister as maid of honor will be Miss Mary Brannan, and the bridesmaids will be Miss Elaine Brannan, also a sister of the bride-elect, and Mr. Skiles's sister, Miss Oralie Skiles. Mrs. Marvin Strauch and Mrs. Richard Bringleson will light the candles for the 3 o'clock service.

Dear Abby

Can't Snag Wary Bachelors

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: How does a 17-year-old high school boy get his parents to realize he is not 2 years old? Last Saturday night I came home later than I said I would. It wasn't my fault. The kid who owned the car wanted to go for a ride and I couldn't get home without him. When I got home, my folks had all but called the cops looking for me. I was only an hour and ten minutes late.

It's all over school and I feel like a baby. My parents have grounded me for a whole month. I gave them my word if they let me off this time it would never happen again. They refused. Don't you think the punishment is unfair or too stiff?

GROUNDED

DEAR GROUNDED: If you told the truth, the discipline is excessive. If you lied, you are getting off easy. Personally, I believe your story.

DEAR ABBY: My sister and I would like to know why some men never get married. We know several bachelors who are from 35 to 60. They are very nice men, but if they go with a girl for a while and she gets serious, they quit dating her. These bachelors say they never expect to get married. It's not that they can't afford it, either. Most of them have good jobs and drive nice cars and have money in the bank. Is there some way to change the mind of a man in this category?

TWO OLD MAIDS

DEAR TWO: Bachelors who have been lured, hornswoggled or rope into marriage make the worst husbands. It's better to be an old maid than to wish you were one.

DEAR ABBY: I think I've spoiled my husband. I would never go out in public with my hair in pin curls, but what's wrong with being that way in the morning? I have been married eight months. At first I would slip out of bed after my husband fell asleep and put my hair up in pin curls. Then I'd get up half an hour before he did and take my hair down and comb it. Lately I have been too sleepy to get up early and take the pin curls out, and boy, have I been catching it! He says I am ugly. Don't you think a woman has a right to appear before her husband in the morning with pin curls?

YOUNG WIFE

DEAR WIFE: It's your breakfast "image" that your husband carries to work with him, to last until he gets home in the evening. Make it good and it won't fade.

Bridge

How Would You Bid?

B. Jay Becker

Partner bids One Spade, next player passes. Both sides are vulnerable and you have a part score of 40. What would you now bid with each of the following five hands?

1. ♠95 ♥Q8642 ♦KJ3 ♣A65
2. ♠Q983 ♥AKJ4 ♦74 ♣Q82
3. ♠Q74 ♥AJ62 ♦KQ3 ♣AJ9
4. ♠62 ♥Q974 ♦J863 ♣J52
5. ♠K9632 ♥AQJ74 ♦8 ♣J4

1. One notrump. Without a part score, the normal response would be two hearts, but with it, the response is one notrump. This is because partner can readily pass two hearts with indifferent support for the suit, since a game contract has been reached — and our heart suit is simply not good enough to stand by itself. Normal bidding practices change when a side has a part score to lean on.

2. Two spades. The natural response, without the part score, would be three spades, but since a jump to three spades with a part score of 40 constitutes a slam try, only a single raise is given. Of course, a two heart response is out of the question because that bid may be passed.

If the king of clubs were substituted for the deuce, we would then have a full three spade bid. It should be noted, also, that a jump raise to three spades merely indicates interest in a slam and does not constitute a forcing bid.

3. Three notrump. This bid is likewise not forcing, but it does strongly invite the opener to continue bidding unless he started with a minimum opening bid. The point count for a jump to three notrump with a part score of 40 is usually 17 or 18. The bid guarantees strength in each of the three side suits as well as notrump distribution.

4. One notrump. Ordinarily, we would pass partner's spade bid because game appears too remote to justify keeping the bidding alive, but with a part score present, the requirements for a bid are lowered from the expected for a notrump response. The goal is nearer and our sights are adjusted accordingly.

5. Three spades. This is a slam try based on a combination of high cards and distribution. Partner does not need a giant hand to make a slam. Thus, he may have as little as the ace of spades, king of hearts and ace of clubs, and these cards padded out a little might produce twelve tricks.

It would not be wise to bid two hearts for the reasons previously given, nor to bid three hearts which would constitute a jump-shift and be 100% forcing. We have the values to suggest the possibility of a slam, but should give partner the option of continuing or not, as he sees fit.

Two Famous Danish Recipes

Mention Danish pastry, Danish coffee cake—Danish cake, and you immediately get the attention of all ears. There is something special about Danish cooking, and it is that something special that appeals strongly to all of us.

This morning we are giving you a recipe for a Danish cake—and another for Danish cookie cake—both with cardamon seed.

Here they are:

SOSTERKAKE
(Sister Cake)

1 envelope active dry yeast
4 tablespoons sugar
¼ cup lukewarm water
¼ cup milk, scalded
3 eggs, beaten
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground cardamon
1 cup butter or margarine, melted
4½ cups sifted all-purpose flour

Combine yeast, sugar and warm water. Let stand 5 minutes to soften. Cool scalded milk to lukewarm and add to yeast. Add eggs, salt, cardamom and butter or margarine. Mix well. Gradually stir in flour. Beat until bubbly. Cover and put in a warm place (80° to 85° F.) to rise until double in size 45 minutes. Beat well again. Turn into a buttered 8 x 2¾-inch round baking pan. (An 8-inch springform pan is perfect for this recipe). Let rise in a warm place 45 minutes or until double in size. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350° F.) 50 minutes or until browned.

FRU MONSONS KAKE
(Cookie Cake)

2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon double-acting baking powder
1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon ground cardamom
1 cup (2 sticks) butter or margarine
3 eggs, separated
3 tablespoons coarse granulated sugar
¼ cup chopped blanched almonds

Sift together flour, baking powder and cardamom. Set aside. Soften butter or margarine and gradually blend in sugar. Beat in egg yolks. Sift in flour mixture. Beat egg whites stiff and fold into the mixture. Spread batter 1-inch thick in buttered 9x9x2-inch pans. Sprinkle top with the 3 tablespoons granulated sugar and almonds. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350° F.) 40 minutes or until light brown. Cut into squares.

Grand Slamwiches

Be different, at least sandwich-wise. the next time the girls come in for bridge. Serve these Grand Slamwiches. They are so attractive and so tasty that the guests will laud you for the time and energy they are sure you spent on the sandwiches. As a matter of fact these "slamwiches" are easy to do, and certainly fun to eat, because the hostess may use a variety of fillings. She may use braunschweiger, minced ham, bologna, even minced chicken—

With the braunschweiger as an example—here is what you do:

BRAUNSCHWEIGER

½ pound braunschweiger sausage
¼ cup drained, finely minced mushrooms
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
1 teaspoon scraped onion
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup dairy sour cream

Combine ingredients, mix well.

CREAM CHEESE DECORATIONS

1 (3 ounce) package cream cheese
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
Food coloring (green, red or yellow)

Combine ingredients, mix well. Reserve half of mixture; tint remaining half a delicate pastel.

Using appropriate cookie cutters, cut out spade, heart, club and diamond-shaped pieces of bread and of cold meats.

Coat each bread cut-out with braunschweiger mix and then top with meat cut-out of same design.

Spread cut edges of bread with cream cheese, and roll these surfaces in sieved egg yolk, parsley or chopped nuts.

Put reserved cream cheese mixture into pastry tube and decorate top of each sandwich.

Makes 18-20 sandwiches.

Fun Dips For Fun Parties

1 (3-oz.) can deviled ham
1(3-oz.) package cream cheese
2 tablespoons Blue cheese Cream

Cream together the deviled ham, cream cheese and Blue Cheese. Add cream to thin mixture to a dip consistency, and beat until light and fluffy. Serve with assorted crackers and bread sticks.

Almond-Bacon Cheese Spread

Mix ¼ cup chopped blanched almonds, 2 strips cooked bacon, crumbled, 1 cup grated process American cheese, 1 tablespoon chopped scallions, ½ cup mayonnaise and ¼ teaspoon salt. Chill. Makes about 1½ cups. Serve with crackers and chippers.

Spicy Ginger Dip

Mix 1 cup commercial sour cream, ¼ cup chopped water chestnuts, 1 tablespoon finely chopped candied ginger, 1 tablespoon soy sauce and 1 cup large curd cottage cheese. Chill. Makes about 2 cups.

Waffle Treat

Give a fresh-baked taste to reheated waffles with crushed pineapple. First, butter each waffle lightly, then spread with an even layer of well-drained crushed pineapple, sprinkle with a little brown or granulated sugar. Bake 10 minutes in a moderate oven (350 F.)

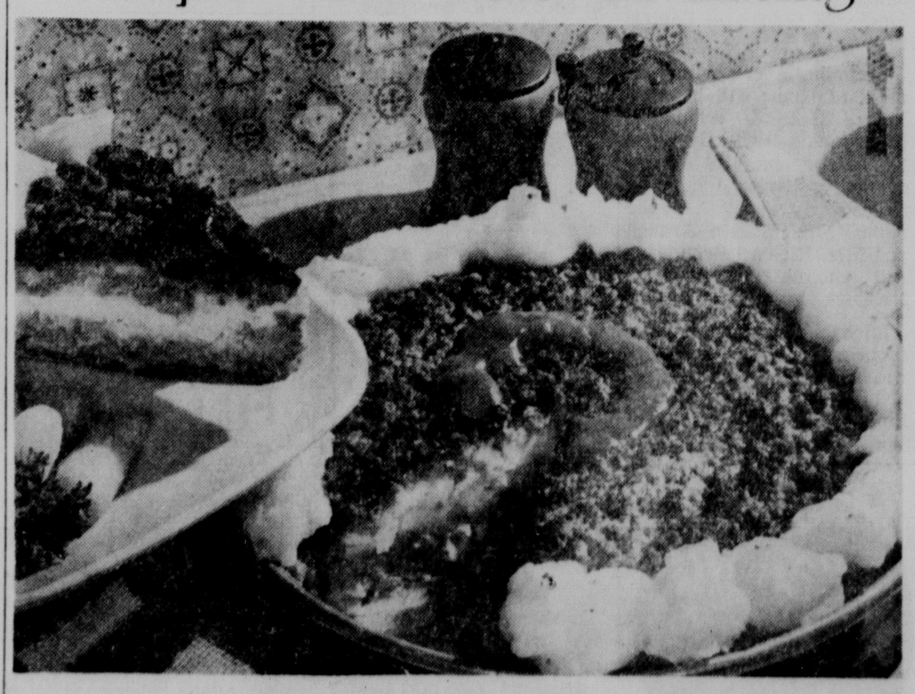
Simple—But Lots Of Eating



Ground beef sparked by Worchestershire sauce and horseradish is the top and bottom layer of this pie, the in-between layer is instant mashed potatoes made creamy and full of oomph by buttermilk. These same flavorsome potatoes wreath the top of the pie as soft, snowy puffs.

There's a lot of hearty eating in this pie. But should you desire a second vegetable, buttered fresh carrots are a colorful and tasty selection. Tossed greens with a tart dressing is another good choice. French bread buttered and heated while the pie is baking makes an excellent accompaniment as do glasses of well-chilled milk.

In saucepan melt butter; add onion and saute until tender. In mixing bowl combine bread, beef, salt, pepper, Worcestershire sauce and horseradish. Add egg, buttermilk and butter mixture; mix lightly but thoroughly. Prepare one envelope instant mashed potatoes according to package directions, substituting ½ cup buttermilk for the milk and adding 2 teaspoons grated onion. Spread half of meat mixture in pie plate; top with potatoe mixture. Spread with remaining meat mixture; bake 1 hour and 15 minutes. Let pie cool while making topping. Prepare remaining envelope instant mashed potatoes as before; spoon potatoe mixture around edge of pie. Slip under broiler until potatoes are lightly browned; garnish center of pie with a few spoonfuls of catsup.

Meter Money Suit Hearing Asked

The Lincoln School District has moved for an April 18 hearing on its suit against the City of Lincoln for $279,914.50 in parking meter penalties.

Based on a 1957 Supreme Court decision in a McCook case, the Lincoln school district action contends this amount was unlawfully retained by the city during a period of 1940 to 1957.

Under its 1940 parking meter ordinance, the city paid 50c of each dollar collected for parking meter violations to the school district and retained 50c as administrative costs.

More than a year after the McCook decision, the Lincoln district filed suit in Lancaster District Court claiming the entire amount represented penalties.

The city contends that the school district in accepting the amounts tendered as fine money is now estopped (legally barred) from claiming additional sums.

City officials have said a two-mill levy would be required to meet the court judgment being sought.

The school board has said it is duty-bound to prosecute the suit and that any recovery against the city would be offset by a lesser school district levy.

A number of other municipalities and school districts, involved in a similar legal problem in the wake of the 1957 high court decision, have reached out-of-court settlements.

Lincoln's present parking meter ordinance, enacted after the 1957 decision, provides for a 5-cent fine and 95-cent court costs.

The North Side Seventh-Day Adventist Church set a goal of $29,000 in 1962 for payment on a proposed $50,000 church expected to be built this year.

Goodbye California

London (UPI) — The Evening Standard reported that songs are being rewritten for the nuclear age. A sample: "California, There You Go."

Newspapers Aid Owners Of Canaries

"In effect, I invite you into my brain—but I don't have liability insurance, so watch your step."

After having thus laid out the welcome mat and having forewarned his audience, Dr. Richard Armour, humorist, teacher, satirist, lecturer, etc., held a cranial open house Thursday at the University of Nebraska Student Union Ballroom.

On display were some of his ideas on sex, money, politics, women, TV, newspapers, humor, Jack Paar, the origin of species, bomb shelters, and any other subject which might find its way into a talk entitled "A Satirist Looks at the World."

Newspaper Important

The Scripps College English teacher said the newspaper is an important link connecting the world of daily events with that world created in a satirist's cerebrum.

"The newspaper is a marvelous source of material," Armour told his audience.

"It is the storehouse of the absurdities, foibles, and weaknesses of mankind."

He said that he normally spends about two hours each day in searching newspapers for material.

And, he added, "They become most useful after they've been read, especially if one owns a canary."

NEW FRONTIER IS NOT FAIR TO 'GAL SCRIBES'

Washington (UPI) — Women reporters aren't getting a fair deal from the New Frontier, Rep. Craig Hosmer, R-Calif., said Thursday.

In a statement for the Congressional Record, Hosmer chided President Kennedy for attending the White House Correspondents Association 1961 dinner, from which he said women members were excluded.

He said Kennedy should refuse henceforth to attend the association dinner "unless women reporters are given a new deal, a fair deal, on the New Frontier."

(Hosmer's office said he was not aware that his statement coincided with an election for the Congressional Standing Committee of Correspondents, in which one of the candidates was a woman.)

London (AP)—Payroll robbers snatched a bag from a 15-year-old apprentice entering a London factory. They thought they had the week's wages. But what they got away with was a dozen currant buns destined for the afternoon tea break.

Feistner Named Secretary Of Education Association

Ely C. Feistner was chosen to become the first executive secretary of the Lincoln Education Association Thursday.

Feistner, 53, is now coordinator of an adult civil defense program in the State Department of Education. He begins work in the $8,000 a year LEA post about Feb. 1.

The 1,058-member LEA, formerly named the Lincoln Teachers Association, has felt the need for a secretary for some time.

Feistner

According to LEA Vice President Morris Huelle Feistner will represent teachers at Board of Education meetings coordinate LEA standing committees, and direct special projects, in addition to routine duties of administrating the LEA's new downtown office.

Beyond his base salary, Feistner will get travel and convention expenses, paid membership dues in the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce and in a national executive secretary association, and a 30-day vacation.

Feistner graduated from Peru State Teachers College and earned his Masters degree at the University of Nebraska. He taught at Blue Springs, was principal at Seward and Nebraska City high schools, and was superintendent at Hampton.

He and his wife live in Lincoln. One of their two sons, Jon, is a student at the University of Nebraska. The other lives in Greeley, Colo.

LEA President Mrs. Helen E. Krause said of the choice of Feistner, "We felt his exceptional background and very high recommendations from Dr. (Freeman) Decker made Mr. Feistner the best choice."

She noted the tendency for salaries of education association secretaries to climb toward those of school superintendents. San Diego, Calif., teachers, she said, pay their secretary $18,500 a year.

Sports Editor, The Star

Goodbye, Bert

Bert Coan of Kansas once again is embroiled in a cause celebre and all evidence indicates he will not pick up his option for the 1962 Jayhawk football season.

Ironically, Nebraskans have heard and read thousands of words about Boundin' Bert, but they have never had to worry about him in a football game.

Coan, a swift and rugged halfback with a great deal of ability, has never played against Nebraska—the only Big 8 team which can make the claim. In 1960, he was on the sick list when the Huskers played at Lawrence and he relinquished hero honors to John Hadl and Hugh Smith, a transient halfback who made NU one of his stops.

Last fall, Bert was confined to a sideline seat for one or two reasons, depending on how you look at the situation: (1) half the season because Big 8 faculty men hit him with an ineligibility penalty after the 1960 season; (2) half the season because of a slow-mending broken leg, suffered in spring practice.

Actually, the badly-injured leg sufficed to bench him in 1961 and the faculty penalty had no bearing on his status. But for the record book, both the faculty and the injury are credited with assists.

It was this how-can-you-punish-a-boy-by-making-him-miss-5-games-when-he-can't-play-anyway drama that left the Big 8 in possession of a sticky wicket of sorts.

By not playing at all in 1961, Bert became in effect a "red shirt" who could play the entire 1962 season. Or could he? Well, he didn't play at all in 1961, so he couldn't lose a season of eligibility that way. And the faculty punishment was by dates—and just "happened" to knock him out of 5 games—and the sentence made no mention of a specific number of games he should miss.

Beat Rap

Barring a new ruling—which would have smacked of double jeopardy—Coan had beaten the rap, so to speak, and could give the Big 8 the horse laugh.

But, perhaps as an act of charity—although I doubt if Bert feels much compassion for the Big 8 fathers—Coan appears to have taken the dons off the spot.

He attended the AFL championship game at San Diego, reportedly as a guest of the Chargers who were trying to woo him from KU prior to the completion of his eligibility.

In view of the trouble KU found itself after Bert accompanied Bud Adams—a Kansas alum who now resides in Texas, but keeps an eye peeled for likely Jayhawks—to the All Star game in Chicago, then transferred from TCU to Kansas, it's a wonder Jack Mitchell ever let Coan out of his sight.

Be that as it may, Walter Byers of the NCAA has already announced that if Coan had any of his expenses paid by the Chargers, he is ineligible for further college play.

Kansas would be more than foolish to risk further run-ins with the NCAA and the Big 8 trying to justify Bert's latest trip.

And since it is unlikely Mitchell would permit the trip because of the obvious risks, and more unlikely that he isn't close enough to the KU situation to know what his ace halfback is doing, it can be surmised that no one expected Bert to be back for the 1962 campaign and all hands knew the jaunt made no difference.

Red Light

If that wasn't the case, it's almost a lead-pipe cinch (or should be) that KU will not permit Coan to play next fall, thus insuring against any possible jam.

Coan probably was weighing his future and chose the pros when he decided to make the trip. He suffered a serious leg injury and there was a lot of concern that he might never play again.

With all the money being tossed around in the bidding duel between the NFL and the AFL, Coan probably felt he'd be wiser to take a pro contract now, rather than risk being permanently sidelined in additional college competition—and miss the pro loot altogether.

All of which adds up to another little irony: While head coach at Nebraska, Bill Jennings never had to send his Huskers against Cian. And when he moved to Kansas as backfield coach, and a possible chance to coach Bert, the Jayhawk flash darted in the direction of the pros.

Wonder if Bill thinks Coan is trying to avoid him?

Rockets, Pius X Picked For Wins

By MIKE COONEY
Star Sports Writer

"You just can't come much closer than that." Those are the words of The Star's prep predictor when speaking of his prediction average.

And the old fellow, for once, is right.

When the season started the cage sage said he'd have a .750 average and by golly he's done just that. After 5 weeks the correction meter reads 75 right, 25 wrong, a round .750 average.

"It isn't near as easy as it was 30 years ago," he was overheard telling one of his cronies, "but I'll fool those youngsters yet."

With renewed confidence he gave this week's picks:

Omaha South at Northeast —Even a Packer backer will admit that on the NE floor this should be in the Rocket pocket.

Beatrice at Pius X — This just isn't the Beatrice year—Pius.

Lincoln High at Boys Town —The Links looked good in upending Benson last week. But on the Cowboy floor things could be different. The upset of the week — Boys Town.

Falls City at University High—It isn't a Falls City year, either. The Tutors will rebound for victory No. 7.

Southeast at Hastings — A big Southeast team against an even bigger Hastings 5. A two-fold pain the neck for the Knights—looking up all night and another loss.

University High at Nebraska City (Sat.)—We may be wrong here but look for a Nebraska City victory.

Pius X at Omaha Cathedral —Pius doesn't play well on Saturday night. Add the fact that they're on the road and come up with a Cathedral win.

Bellevue at Southeast—No rest for the Southeast crew that is playing all the toughies. This one could surprise but Bellevue looks like the winner.

Top outstate game:

Grand Island at Fremont—The Tigers handled Grand Island in the Third City and should be able to repeat in front of their Dodge County faithful.

Other top games:

Murdock, Cook Meet In Finals

Johnson — Murdock and Cook advanced as expected to the finals of the Johnson Invitational with victories here Thursday night.

Murdock, The Star's second rated Class D team fought back from a 31-33 half time deficit to trip Johnson, 63-56.

Cook beat down a furious Talmadge rally to advance with a 45-41 victory.

The winners were ahead 33-26 entering the final quarter.

Grube topped all scorers for the evening with 27 points.

Johnson	14	19	4	19—56
Murdock	17	14	16	16—63
Cook	10	14	9	13—45
Talmadge	8	8	10	15—41

Winner's high — John Roeber, Ross Rikli, 16. Loser's high—Dale Grube 27.
Winners high — Wayne Parde, 19. Loser's high—Terry Bischoff, 13.

GLOVES FLY TONIGHT

50 Boxers Expected At Pershing SE Bouts

... EMERY STABLE FAVORED

Pugilism in its purest state will be on display at Pershing Auditorium tonight as an expected 50 free swingers bid for glory in the Southeast Nebraska district Golden Gloves eliminations.

Tonight's preliminary bouts get underway at 8:30 p.m. Winners return for Saturday night's finals at the same time, same place.

Fight fans used to getting their kicks from the TV set may do well to let the magic box rest this weekend.

Champions have vacated almost all the Southeast weight divisions and there are plenty of eager scrappers ready to fight their way into the throne room.

The Pershing tourney, sponsored by Lincoln's American Legion Post No. 3, is one of 6 district meets to furnish competition for the Midwest Golden Gloves championships in Omaha Feb. 16-17.

Lincoln, Milford, Falls City, Fairbury and possibly other cities will supply the talent for the Capital City bouts.

The Larry Emery club of Lincoln is expected to run off with the team championship once again. Emery boxers won all divisions last year and then copped the team event at Omaha.

But Emery has only two champions returning — Eddie Phillips at 112 pounds and Mike Larchick at 135.

Two 1961 Emery warriors, 126-pounder Dave Nicholas and Jim Roode at 175, may battle for the Milford team. Nicholas has been preparing an entry at the Nebraska Technical School.

George Morris has two fighters for the Lincoln Pentzer Park (Salvation Army) team. Falls City and Fairbury entries aren't certain.

This afternoon's official weigh-in may be a major factor in determining the cards. Boxers who've gained pounds may not make the division they're ticketed for.

Among title contenders counting calories is colorful Li'l Willie Curry of the Emery club, one of last year's top contestants. He's hoping to hit 126 pounds.

Emery is strong in the 135-pound class and if Willie makes the lesser weight, it could insure another title.

Other top Emery battlers include welterweight Ken Knauber, light-heavy Gene Olson and heavyweight Buzz Truax.

Truax, the Waverly walloper coming out of retirement after winning the Midwest title a few years back, appears to be a title shoo-in.

Olson, rangy blond from Syracuse, won National Guard summer camp championships the past 3 years.

Pershing Auditorium is hosting the event for the 3rd straight year. Ted Connor is chairman of the sponsoring Legion group.

112 pounds (flyweight)—Eddie Phillips, Emery.
118 pounds (bantamweight)—Henry Bornemeier, Jay Parsons, both Emery.
126 pounds (featherweight)—Willie Curry, Bill Edwards, Gene Acosia, all Emery.
135 pounds (lightweight)—Mike Larchick, Ted Gekas, Ray Tuttle, all Emery.
147 pounds (welterweight)—Ken Knauber, Rick Garcia, both Emery; Ramero Sanchez, Pentzer Park.
160 pounds (middleweight)—Jerry Gillette, Keith Kimbrough, both Emery; Jack Hensley, Pentzer Park.
175 pounds (light-heavyweight)—Gene Olson, Jim Blake, both Emery.
Heavyweight—Buzz Truax, Emery.

Local Cage Action Lists 3 Tonight

Three local games tonight and a solo Lincoln performance Saturday night headline the basketball card for Capital City fans this week end.

Omaha South is at Northeast while two Southeast Nebraska teams, Beatrice and Falls City visit Pius X and University High at 8 p.m.

Lincoln High travels to Boys Town and Southeast is entertained by Hastings tonight.

Saturday night Southeast hosts unbeaten Bellevue for the only local action. University High goes to Nebraska City and Pius X is on the road at Omaha Cathedral.

Lincoln High is host team for a quadrangular wrestling meet today with Westside, Omaha Tech and Pius X participating at 7 p.m. at the PSA Building.

Main attraction on the swimming card is the Boys Town-Southeast dual meet at 4 this afternoon in the Southeast pool.

NU Swim Meet Cancelled Friday

The University of Nebraska swimming team will have just one meet this weekend.

The Husker tankers had been scheduled for two meets—a dual Friday night with Emporia Kansas State and a quadrangular meet Saturday.

The Friday meet was cancelled when the Emporia coach informed Nebraska swim coach Dick Klaas that his team would not be able to get to Lincoln because of weather conditions.

The meet Saturday will go on as scheduled.

Three Deadlocked In 1st Round Of Crosby

Pebble Beach, Calif., (AP) — Senior professional Chuck Congden of Tacoma, Wash., joined former National Collegiate champions Phil Rodgers and Joe Campbell at the top of the heap in the $50,000 Bing Crosby golf tournament Thursday as all shot 67's.

The trio carded the 5-under-par scores at the Monterey Peninsula Country Club course, one of 3 in play in this opening round.

Congden, a veteran in his 50's who plays only a few tournaments annually, carded a 33-34. He sank birdie putts of 40, 20 and 18 feet during his torrid round. About one-quarter of the golfers still were playing when the Tacoman finished.

Campbell, from Pendleton, Ind., and a former Purdue University star, put together rounds of 35-32 over the Monterey Country Club course, a 6,246-yard layout with par 35-37.

Rodgers, who played at the University of Houston, continued the par-breaking game that won him the Los Angeles Open this year. Also playing at the Country Club, he shot a 34-33.

The two young pros had a one-stroke lead over Harry Umbinetti of North Bend, Wash., who shot 36-32 to finish 4-under-par at the Cypress Point course.

Campbell, who won the Beaumont, Tex., open last year, was among the early starters in the bulky field of 324 golfers.

Late starters, including some of golf's big names, weren't expected to finish until shortly before dark.

In the pro-amateur division, the lead went to a pair from Southern California — pro Bob McCallister from Yorba Linda and the Los Angeles Angels little outfielder, Albie Pearson.

They had a best-ball of 59 as Pearson, with a 10-stroke handicap, fired a 74 on his own at Pebble Beach while McCallister had 73.

Thirty pros broke par, including Jack Niclaus, the 1961 national amateur champion, who carded a 71 at Cypress Point.

The casualty lists included some big names. PGH champ Jerry Barber took a 10 at the over-the-ocean 16th at Cypress Point and wound up at 79. South Africa's Gary Player, last year's leading money winner, also had a 79 there, Cary Middlecoff a 78, and Arnold Palmer a 76. Art Wall Jr., Crosby champion in 1959, had a 74.

Casper, who won here in 1958, showed some of the best shooting. He was 8 under par for the final 16 holes after going 4 over on the first two.

Defending champion Bob Rosburg opened with a 75 at Cypress Point while Ken Venturi, the 1960 titlist here, had 72.

Veteran Art Doering of Columbus, Ohio, scored a hole-in-one on the 110-yard 7th hole of Pebble Beach but he wound up with those at 75, far down the list.

A crowd estimated at 15,000, largest ever for an opening day here, watched the action.

Chuck Congdon 34-34—67; Joe Campbell 35-32—67; Phil Rodgers 34-33—67; Jack Cupit 35-33—68; Bill Casper 37-31—68; Harry Umbinetti 36-32—68; Mason Rudolph 36-32—68; Bob Harris 35-44—69; John Palmer 33-36—69; Frank Boynton 35-35—69.
Don Whitt 34-45—69; Johnny Pott 33-36—69; Gardner Dickinson 36-33—69; Ed Oldfield 36-33—69; Paul Harney 37-33—70; Bud Holscher 36-34—70; Tommy Aaron 35-35—70; Bruce Crampton 34-36—70; Bernard Hunt 37-33—70; Dave Ragan 34-36—70; Doug Ford 36-34—70; Billy Farrell 36-34—70.

Devaney's Confidence, Humor Make Big Hit

By DON BRYANT
Star Sports Editor

Omaha—Bob Devaney has yet to win over the University of Wyoming officials and a footbal game for Nebraska, but the new Cornhusker coach conquered the Omaha Business Men's Association Thursday noon in his first public appearance here.

Demonstrating sure-fire humor, side-splitting story telling ability and confidence in himself and Nebraska, Devaney got a pair of standing ovations.

"I hear they stand up for coaches in Lincoln, too," he quipped. "That's so everyone can get a better shot at him."

Devaney had a serious message, however, and delivered it in convincing fashion.

"Right now our No. 1 objective is to try to get the best high school football players out of Nebraska," he said. "We're making a concentrated effort in that direction. We may miss some or we may misjudge some boy, but we sincerely don't want any good players wandering off. If we do lose someone it won't be because we didn't try to get him."

Following the luncheon at the Hotel Castle, Devaney and assistant Cletus Fischer visited Omaha North and Omaha Benson high schools. And Thursday night they met with a group of Omaha prep coaches for a get-acquainted session.

Devaney said spring practice would be devoted to (1) "finding out which of the boys enjoy hitting people" and (2) "trying to punt in our offense and defense — giving the boys an idea of what we'll run in the fall."

"But primarily we want to find out who really enjoys football," he said. "desire and hustle are what we're most interested in."

Devaney also stressed the restoration — or rejuvenation — in Nebraska football as a prime objective.

"When we go onto the field for a game," he said, "We want the coaches, players and fans all thinking we have better than a 50-50 chance to win against any team we play."

One of the things that will contribute to this, he said, is making sure the players attend practice, and punctually.

"We want all the boys on the field at 3:20 p.m. for special drills," he said. "Then we'll go into group work at 4 p.m. We intend to have everyone off the field at 5:30 p.m., so they can shower, rest a few minutes, eat a good meal at the very fine training table Nebraska has, and then be able to get an early start on their studies."

Injecting a humorous note, Devaney said he checked into the Nebraska situation thoroughly before accepting the job.

"I found that Nebraska people are 100 per cent behind Cornhusker football — win or tie," he cracked.

And in a serious tone, Devaney concluded, "We want the new boys coming in the fine group of boys returning (from last year's club) convinced of our aim — trying to play the kind of football you deserve and want at Nebraska.

"If we don't, it won't be because we all didn't give it a helluva try," he said.

Devaney will return to Lincoln Friday to start house hunting before heading out state on a recruiting tour this weekend.

Jofre Gains 10th Round Title KO

Sao Paulo, Brazil (AP) — Eder Jofre of Brazil gained undisputed possession of the world bantamweight title with a 10th round technical knockout of Johnny Caldwell of Ireland in a scheduled 15 rounder Thursday night.

Jofre, Brazil's first undisputed champion, weighed in at 117½, a half pound lighter than his Irish opponent who had to exercise for almost an hour to make the 118 pound limit.

Jofre, appearing to be in control all the way, knocked Caldwell down for a 3-count in the 5th and twice had him bleeding from the nose.

The clever little Brazilian floored Caldwell with a right cross after a couple of solid lefts.

He drew blood in the 3rd and 8th, and 4 times drove Caldwell to the ropes with a two-fisted attack in the 6th.

Jofre, 25, so completely outclassed and punished his previously unbeaten opponent that the young Irishman dropped his defense completely in the 10th round and his manager, Sam Docherty, jumped into the ring and stopped it.

The time was 2:45 of the 10th.

Caldwell, 23, was unbeaten in 25 previous professional fights. He was recognized as bantamweight champion in Europe, gaining a share of the title by two victories over former champion Alphonse Halimi.

Jofre, favored because of his knockout punch, was recognized as champion in South America and by the United States' National Boxing Association. His record is now 41-0-3.

Caldwell, who spent much of the bout with his back to the ropes and Jofre's hard left hand in his face, was knocked down for the second time in the fight just seconds before it was stopped.

It was Jofre's vicious left hand that put him down for a 9 count in the 10th, and sealed the verdict.

He staggered to his feet, but the Brazilian bantam stalked him relentlessly, punishing him with a two-handed attack to the head and body.

"Johnny Caldwell is a very good fighter," Jofre said after the bout. "I'm filled with a terrific emotion of this victory. I think I made a very good fight."

Jets Drop From ABL Until '63

Los Angeles (AP)— The Los Angeles Jets announced Thursday they will suspend operations for the second half of the American Basketball League season, but said the team will reorganize and play out of nearby Long Beach next season.

A league spokesman in Chicago said the circuit would continue to operate with 7 members.

A Jets spokesman said all of the team's players have been optioned to other ABL clubs, but are subject to recall for the 1962-63 season.

The spokesman would not say who is to finance the Long Beach entry, but said it expects to play in a soon-to-be-completed Sports Arena there.

The future of the league, which opened operations this year in opposition to the long-established National Basketball Association, will be discussed this weekend when ABL commissioner Abe Saperstein returns from Europe.

Saperstein, who operates the Chicago Majors in the ABL, also is owner-coach of the independent Harlem Globetrotters.

Still in the league are the Chicago Majors, the New York Tapers, Cleveland Pipers, Pittsburgh Rens, Kansas City Steers, San Francisco Saints and Hawaii Chiefs.

There are reports the Cleveland Pipers may merge with the Syracuse Nats of the NBA and operate in Cleveland presumably as an NBA member.

The ABL spokesman said several faetors were involved in the folding of the Los Angeles member.

These included financial difficulties, competitive pressure from the Los Angeles Lakers of the NBA and the illness of Len Corbosiero, Jet president and one of the ABL founders.

The spokesman said Los Angeles players reverted to ABL control and were assigned as follows, based on a draft determined by the ABL's first-half season finish:

Bill Spivey to the Hawaii Chiefs; Dan Swartz to the New York Tapers; Henry Whitney to the Chicago Majors; Jim Palmer to the San Francisco Saints; and Hal Lear to the Kansas City Steers.

K-State Nudges Mizzou

Columbia, Mo., (AP) — Gary Marriott hit a hot scoring streak in the closing minutes to carry the Kansas State Wildcats to a 69-66 victory over the Missouri Tigers in a Big 8 conference basketball game Thursday night.

The score was tied 55-55 with 6:52 to go when Marriott sank a jump shot to put the Wildcats ahead to stay. Then in the next 5 minutes Marriott did all of the Kansas State scoring—12 straight points on two field goals and 8 free throws.

Marriott tied with Mike Wroblewski of K-State and Walt Grebing of Missouri for game honors at 17 points.

Kansas State sank 27 of 62 field shots for 43.5 per cent, while Missouri hit 26 of 63 for 41.3 per cent.

ELKHORN REIGNS AS HUSKER 12 WINNER

Lincoln Star Special

Wahoo—Elkhorn reigns today as Husker 12 conference tourney champions. The Antlers gained the crown Thursday night with a tougher than expected 62-53 win over Valparaiso.

Valparaiso, with big Tom Maly shooting well, jumped to 14-12 first quarter lead and appeared on the verge of an upset. But Elkhorn changed tactics in the second quarter and moved to a 31-25 lead at halftime.

The Antlers moved ahead using a pressing defense that forced Valparaiso into passing errors. Denny Dau, the leading Elkhorn scorer with 20 points, and Gary Witt were the leaders in the second period surge.

Valparaiso rebounded in the 3rd period and were still in contention at 38-44 as the period ended. But greater Elkhorn depth paid off in the final canto and the Antlers moved to their 9th win without defeat.

A big factor in the Elkhorn win was the defensive job done on Valparaiso shooting ace Steve Kratovil. The Bulldog Bombadier" who appeared tired by the heavy tournament pace, was limited to one field goal and 6 points.

Platteview led all the way to score a 59-33 win over Cedar Bluffs in the 3rd place game. Bob Stevens and Dick Latham led a well balanced attack that had the winners on top all the way.

Syracuse Auburn In SE Finals

Lincoln Star Special

Pawnee City—Syracuse won a spine tingling thriller from Pawnee City and Auburn clubbed Wymore to move to the finals of the Southeast Border basketball tournament Thursday night.

Jim Tegelhutter dropped a 15-foot jump shot at the final gun to give Syracuse a 64-62 victory over Pawnee City in a gam that had more ups-and-downs than a department store elevator.

Syracuse jumped to a 42-28 halftime lead in the wild game and appeared on the way to an easy win. But Pawnee City battled back with a torrid 28 point shooting spree in the 3rd quarter to take a 5 point edge into the final quarter.

It was Syracuse's turn to rally then and the Rockets did just that—tying the score with one minute left.

Pawnee City then stalled for nearly a minute but lost the ball with 8 seconds showing on the scoreboard clock. Syracuse called time and when play resumed hustled the ball to Tegelhutter for his game winning shot.

Auburn advanced with a 60-42 win over Wymore. The Bulldogs, paced by the 23 point shooting of Marv Hopper, led from the opening gun.

Syracuse and Auburn will meet for the championship tonight while Wymore and Pawnee City battle for 3rd place

Alvin Tooke from Lincoln High is the first sophomore to win the Capital Performance award.

The 5-8 guard turned in a pair of sparkling performances for the Links last weekend to earn the laurels.

Tooke

Tooke was the spark that incited Lincoln High's 56-55 victory over highly-regarded Omaha Benson. He hit 17 points against the Bunnies and canned 3 straight field goals in the last 3 minutes of the game.

The night before, the Links' soph hit 18 in a losing effort against Northeast. Tooke's weekend production boosted his scoring average to 10.5 points per game after a slow start.

Other meritorious performances by Lincoln cagers: Dave Lebsack, who canned 17 in leading Northeast past Lincoln High and whose restoration to the lineup has bolstered Rockets basketball hopes; Pat Fitzpatrick whose 3 free throws after the end of regulation time put Pius X past Grand Island Catholic, 52-48.

BARBER IS 'PUTTER OF YEAR'

Chicago (AP)—Jerry Barber, who sank consecutive putts of 20, 40, and 60-foot on the last 3 holes of the 1961 National PGA tournament, has been named "Putter-of-the-Year."

His putting feat at Olympia Fields tied him with Don January at the end of 72 holes, forcing a playoff for the PGA crown which Barber won. For the entire 90 holes he was required to play, Barber did not 3-putt a single green.

The 45-year-old pro who stands 5-feet-5-inches and weighs 135 pounds, received 13 of the 17 votes cast for the putting honor by officers and directors of the Golf Writers Association of America.

The former Illinois farm boy who now registers out of California will be presented the trophy at Tuesday's annual golf awards dinner in New York City.

Single votes this year went to Dick Sikes, University of Arkansas captain who one-putted 59 greens in winning the 1961 national public links title; Mickey Wright, who took only 27 putts in the 3rd round of her National Women's Open triumph; Gary Player, who holed several clutch putts in his Masters victory, and Bill Casper, most consistent of the game's surest putters.

Even Yogi Admits Catching Day Past

. . . HE'S STRICTLY OUTFIELD

New York (UPI)—Yogi Berra, elder statesman of the New York Yankees, probably has caught his last game.

The world champs have put old Yogi out to pasture in left field to prolong a career he admits "already has lasted longer than I thought it would."

"I'd be glad to catch any time the manager asks me to," Berra said wistfully as he considered prospects for his 17th Yankee campaign. "I sort of missed the old action last year, being out in left field most of the time."

But the toll of catching too many doubleheaders for too many years finally began to show a couple of seasons back and Berra began to catch less and less.

Last season, he was behind the bat in only 15 of his 119 games and he may not catch another unless manager Ralph Houk makes a gesture for old time's sake.

Yogi was the best at his peak. He won 3 Most Valuable Player awards — 1951, 1954, 1955 — all as a catcher.

Two things about Yogi haven't changed in all the years he has been up: The Yankees still want his bat in the lineup as often as possible and still says the darndest things.

Yogi's public speaking fluffs are many and continuing with his most famous occurring some years back as he accepted a special tribute with this — "I want to thank all you people who make this night necessary."

Friend and foe alike have been poking fun at Berra's gnomish appearance and at what he says — but rarely at what he does on the ball field.

In more or less strange outfield surroundings last year he hit .271, stroked 22 homers and remained one of the game's most dangerous batsmen because of his penchant for hitting "bad" pitches.

At 37, he admits he can't play every day even in the outfield but in 1962 — as in 1947 — the Yankees want him in there frequently.

Pirates Rule Out Radio, TV Shows

Pittsburgh (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates said no member of the team will be permitted to have his own radio or television show this season.

A Pirate spokesman said general manager Joe L. Brown and manager Danny Murtaugh agreed to the ban because the shows would be "too time-demanding.'

Last season 3rd baseman Don Hoak had a TV show while shortstop Dick Groat and pitcher Bob Friend had radio shows.

PIERSALL DEALING

Washington (AP) — Jim Peirsall and the Washington Senators began contract talks but apparently made little headway.

"We are still far apart," Senator General Manager Ed Doherty reported after a two hour session with the fleet outfielder.

Piersall, who left town after the conference, said that after the best season of his life he did not want to make a quick decision.

Bowling Clinic

By BILLY SIXTY

In 3 years, reader John Moretti of Levittown, N.J., went from 159 average to 188. which is a remarkable improvement. But there he stopped flat. He went from a conventional (⅜ths pitch) to a semi-fingertip and then to a full fingertip (only tip of fingers, to first knuckle, inserted in holes).

"My swing is grooved, but I don't get enough drive on the ball," Moretti writes. "I am 5 feet 4, weigh 148 pounds, have very small hands. Is it possible the fingertip grip is at fault?"

Off hand, without seeing Moretti's style or ball action, I would say he has gone beyond the grip width best for him. Or for anyone of his stature, with small hands.

I am confident that he would do far better with a conventional grip that permits burying the fingers to the crease of the second knuckle, and the thumb, ALL THE WAY. He should use a 3-fingered ball, possibly 4. The holes snug but NOT tight.

By all means, Moretti should hold the ball chest high and push it far out (see sketch) and straight out, to get a full swinging arc. That will give him regulated speed, and enough of it, without physical effort.

Also, the drive that he is missing, the finish with power, will come with arm lift. Easy arm lift, mind you, so that the fingers will apply spin.

Most Courageous

New York (AP)—Just before Charlie Smith, 3rd baseman of the Phillies, stepped up to receive his rookie award from a bubble gum sponsor, master of ceremonies Joe Garagiola said:

"Charlie ought to get the award for being the most courageous. He played 121 games last season, and most of them for the Phillies."

100 GRAND A MONTH . . .

Los Angeles, (UPI)—A federal grand jury here indicted Fred Sica on two counts of attempting to evade federal taxes on an estimated $100,000 monthly football betting operation.

Sica, 46, was accused of attempting to evade both federal occupational tax and the federal excise tax on gambling, according to U.S. Atty. Francis M. Whelan.

The defendant was arrested at his Hollywood apartment Nov. 22 and authorities said they seized evidence in a raid indicating Sica took $100,000 monthly in football bets.

Highlights Of Budget

Washington (UPI) — Highlights of President Kennedy's budget for fiscal 1963:

SPENDING —$92.5 billion, up $3.4 billion from this year with most of the increase going into defense and space programs.

SURPLUS — Estimated revenues of $93 billion would leave a modest surplus of $500 million, but this is contingent on Congress increasing postal rates and on the continued "brisk recovery" of the U.S. economy.

TAXES — Repeal the 10% tax on railroad and bus tickets, and drop the airline ticket tax from 10 to 5% next year. Maintain income, corporate and excise taxes at present levels. Grant tax credits for industrial investment and offset revenue losses with tighter rules on depreciation, dividends, expense accounts and foreign income.

DEFENSE — A total of $52.7 billion devoted to defense, an increase of $1.5 billion over this year. Includes funds for more Minuteman missiles and Polaris submarines to enable U.S. strategic forces to survive any massive attack and strike back decisively. $700 million set aside for civil defense, including new community shelter program.

SPACE — More money for space than ever before — $3.7 billion compared with $2.3 billion for this year. Will be used for major stepup in space programs, including efforts to place a man on the moon and bring him back, as well as for advances in communications and meteorology.

FARM PROGRAMS — Agricultural expenditures reduced from $6.3 billion in 1962 budget to $5.8 billion in this one. This being done because Kennedy will propose changes in price support laws to reduce agriculture spending by $434 million. Food stamp plan will be expanded, more money spent for rural electrical loans.

FOREIGN AID — An increase of economic assistance to undeveloped countries of $200 million, making a total of $2.5 billion. Foreign military aid will be $1.4 billion, same as this year.

VETERANS BENEFITS — Spending of $5.3 billion, down slightly from the current $5.6 billion. Increases proposed in pensions for those with service-connected disabilities.

HEALTH — $1.4 billion earmarked for health programs, half of which goes to national institutes of health for expanded research on major diseases. Federal grants are proposed to help build new medical schools, provide scholarships for future doctors and dentists.

EDUCATION — Outlays estimated at $1.5 billion, an increase of $327 million over this year. Includes $90 million for start on program of federal aid for classroom construction and teachers salaries in public schools, which Congress must pass. Also additional funds for college dormitories and classrooms and student scholarships.

WELFARE —$2.8 billion for public assistance, including $93 million to modernize and strengthen welfare services aimed at making relief families self-supporting.

NATURAL RESOURCES — An estimated $600 million for starts on 43 new water resource projects. Long-range programs for the national parks and forests being strengthened.

BUDGET . . . DOLLAR

Washington (UPI) — How the federal budget dollar will be spent in fiscal 1963:

National security & space—63 cents.
Interest on debt—10 cents.
Veterans benefits—6 cents.
Farm programs—6 cents.
Health & welfare—6 cents.
Other activities—9 cents.
National security includes spending for armed forces, atomic energy, foreign aid and other international activities. "Other activities" include general government overhead: housing, highway, aviation, water projects and other domestic programs.)

Where the budget dollar will come from:
Individual income taxes—53 cents.
Corporation income taxes—28 cents.
Excise taxes—11 cents.
Other revenues—8 cents.

Red Official Rapped

Moscow (AP) — The official youth newspaper Komsolmolskaya Pravda has lashed out at Moscow's acting police chief for what it called forcing 3-year-old children to walk 2 miles through heavy snow to kindergarten. The paper said the officer, Leonid Smirnov, halted bus service for the children because their parents failed to pay 2½ rubles monthly (about $2.60 at the official rate) for expenses. The paper added Smirnov "always has a car waiting for his use."

PIPE, STRING AND $8 GUARD AGAINST FIRE

By HAL BROWN
Star Staff Writer

Some people build their own fallout shetlers, others build stereos. But Henry C. Carter of 915 Whittier has built his own fire detection and sprinkler device.

Carter, who has been disabled for the past 3 years, says he built the device as a protective measure for his vast assortment of equipment in the basement.

The 59-year-old former carpenter has turned his basement into a woodworking center.

"With all the wood and equipment I have in the basement I thought I should do something to protect it from fire," Carter said.

Low Cost

Carter says he completed the homemade device at a cost of less than $8. The system consists of a pipe and a string which weaves around the entire basement area where he works.

The string is stretched tight and if it should be burned in two. it releases a valve, sending water through the entire pipe. Small holes are drilled every 4 inches in the pipe so that when water is forced through the pipe it acts as a sprinkler system.

"The only advantage a manufactured system has over mine is that in case of fire, the entire basement would not be sprinkled," Carter explained. With manufac tured sprinkler systems, only the area where the fire is located is sprinkled.

HENRY CARTER

Triggers Alarm

When the string breaks on Carter's device, it also sets off an alarm that warns anyone who may be in the house.

Carter says he spends about 3 hours per day working in his workshop, making book ends, picture frames and bread boards among other items of wood.

One of Carter's proudest projects is a center revolving window, which he claims to have built several years before they were sold on the market.

"The idea originated about 10 years ago when I suggested it to the custodians in the Lincoln schools," he says.

Carter explained the reason for the idea was the trouble custodians have with washing the outside of windows on 2nd and 3rd floors.

The window which Carter says he originated revolves on a vertical pivot. "When you want to wash the outside of the window you can just turn the window so that the outside is inside," he explained.

Carter has a small stockpile of items he has built, but he says he has never tried to sell much of the woodwork. "I generally give them away as Christmas presents," he says.

Concordia Post Goes To Gerwick

Seward — Devere Gerwick of Seward has been appointed public relations field representative for Concordia Teachers College.

He will center his efforts on Concordia's HUB (Help Us Build) program formed to gain financial assistance in its dormitories construction plan.

Until recently Gerwick was editor of the Nebraska Lutheran Layman publication and has held many offices in the Nebraska District, Lutheran Laymen's League.

$1,652 Low Bid For PD Generator

Fairbanks-Morse & Co. was apparent low bidder at $1,652.65 for an emergency power generator for the Police Department's radio equipment.

City Purchasing Agent Wayne Harvey said a bid acceptance recommendation is awaiting receipt of Civil Defense approval of 50-50 matching funds.

Conversation to narrow-band radio equipment, required by the Federal Communication Commission, is also programmed at an estimated $25,000 in the current city budget.

This equipment is also eligible for federal funds, but not until an emergency power generator is installed and operating.

Creighton Med School Gets $38,166 Grant

Omaha (UPI)—The John A. Hartford Foundation, Inc., New York City, has approved a two-year grant of $38,166 to the Creighton University School of Medicine.

The funds will be used in the study of the causes. and prevention of arteriosclerosis and development of surgical therapy for this condition. The foundation previously granted the school $25,493 for the same project.

Determination

Saigon (UPI) — U.S. Ambassador Frederick E. Nolting Jr., just back from Washington, reaffirmed American determination "to assist the Vietnamese government and people in their courageous struggle."

Psychiatric Assn. Features State Retardation Research

Nebraska Psychiatric Institute's pilot research project into the problem of mental retardation was featured in a recent issue of "Mental Hospitals," hospital journal of the American Psychiatric Assn.

Accompanying a review of President Kennedy's statements on the need for national action against mental retardation, the article on "The Nebraska Plan" reviews the program of the new Mental Retardation Clinical Research Center at the NPI, operating under a $1,745,000 grant from the National Institute for Mental Health.

The program is directed at finding the causes, clarifying diagnoses and developing techniques and procedures for prevention and treatment of mental retardation.

A new clinical research ward for 10 patients has electronic devices to record physiological and visual observations on a 24-hour basis. A staff of a dozen scientists of varied disciplines backed up by a battalion of technicians will observe and learn at the NPI project.

Can Treat More

Dr. Cecil Wittson, director of NPI notes in the article that "we believe that early diagnoisis and suitable facilities can make it possible to treat many children successfully—children who otherwise would be destined for years of institutionalization."

The article comments that the Nebraska program "bears witness to how very much can be accomplished by a state facility which determines to meet the challenge of retardation energetically and head on."

The Psychiatric Institute, located in Omaha near the University of Nebraska school of medicine, is jointly financed by the university and the State Department of Public Institutions.

Racial Trouble Causes Negro School To Close

Baton Rouge, La. (UPI)—Officials of Southern University, the largest all-Negro University in the United States, closed the school indefinitely Thursday to combat racial demonstrations.

The school was ordered closed at 6 p.m. EST. Dr. Felton G. Clark, president of Southern, announced the closing at a special convocation of the student body. Southern has 4,344 students.

Students threatened a new demonstration Thursday because 7 students, leaders of a racial demonstration in downtown Baton Rouge last month, were ordered off the campus.

"There can be no communication in any kind of mob situations," Dr. Clark told students and teachers. He said disturbances by segments of the student body had "seriously hampered activities and classes of the university."

Dr. Clark said students and members of the faculty "were subjected to constant harrassment and intimidation which was seriously disrupting normal routine."

"This included, in some instances, vandalism and property destruction, the extent of which has yet to be determined," he added.

University registrar A. J. Hedgemon said students would be informed when the university would re-open.

But the registrar stressed that students would be required to re-apply for admission, and none would be allowed to enroll until the university accepts them.

WIREPHOTO

LITTLE GIRL . . . OR BIG CHAIR

Something is out of proportion in this photo and its not Miss Fonda Ash who is 5 foot 2 and from Clearwater, Fla. The rocker in which she is sitting is 7 feet high and 4 feet wide and weighs 380 pounds. It is being displayed in a furniture store window. The tiny rocker Miss Ash is holding just tends to make the big one bigger.

Wichita Hard Hit By Snow

Chicago (AP)—Snow reached record levels in parts of the Midwest Thursday as prolonged severe weather held a firm grip on most of the northern parts of the country.

The latest storms dumped 13 inches of new snow in Wichita, Kan., topping the record fall from a single storm set in 1909. Other Kansas areas were blanketed with 8 to 9 inches.

Kansas City wallowed in 7 inches. The new fall made a total of 23.2 inches on the ground surpassing the previous record for the whole month of January, 22.2 inches in 1930.

Two Slices Of Bread 'Ruined'

Some well-done toast was the only thing firemen found Thursday night when they answered a call at 1501 Burr.

V. D. Haynes called firemen when he smelled smoke and firemen were dispatched to the scene immediately. When they arrived they found the smoke was caused by toast that had stuck in a toaster.

Damage — two slices of bread ruined.

CIA, McCone Survive Quizzing

Washington (AP) — Power of the Central Intelligence Agency and John A. McCone's fitness to head it both were questioned Thursday but a Senate committee gave informal approval to McCone's nomination as CIA director.

The wealthy industrialist-engineer actually has been running the super-secret agency since last November when he succeeded Allen Dulles under an interim appointment by President Kennedy.

Despite conflict-of-interest challenges and other criticisms during several hours of hearings, it was learned late Thursday that a substantial majority of the Armed Services Committee will endorse the nomination. A formal vote was postponed until Monday.

Okayed Twice

Senate confirmation also appears to be a foregone conclusion since McCone twice has won unanimous Senate approval for federal posts — in 1950 as deputy secretary of the Air Force and in 1958 as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Nor did it seem likely that bids to clip CIA's wings would get far.

Challenging of the California Republican was begun Thursday by Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., who appeared as a witness; he is not a member of the armed services group. McCarthy challenged McCone's fitness to head an organization which the Minnesotan said wields so much power with so little Congressional supervision that it might land this nation in war.

McCarthy said the CIA is credited "with helping oust (Mohammed) Mossadegh from the premiership of Iran in 1953" and has "taken credit for the overthrow of Dr. (Jacobo) Arbenz as president of Guatemala in 1954."

McCarthy has been a leader of past efforts to put CIA operations under close scrutiny of a joint Senate-House committee such as exercises broad supervision over the Atomic Energy Commission. But Congress so far has been unwilling to go that far in controlling the agency which is such a hush-hush outfit that what it does, how many persons it employs and how much it spends all are secret.

McCone took the stand to assure the committee he would not try to make foreign policy or carry out any secret operations without approval of the President and secretary of state. He also denied any conflict of interest exists between his extensive property-holding and his duties as CIA director. He agreed to furnish a list of his financial holdings.

The questioning of McCone developed more or less along party lines with Republicans Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, Francis Case of South Dakota and Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts making the more critical queries.

Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri was most active among the Democrats in defending McCone, declaring there has "never been a better public servant in Washington than McCone."

RAYBURN PAID FINAL TRIBUTE BY THE HOUSE

Washington (AP)—The House laid aside its legislative program Thursday to conduct memorial services for the late Speaker Sam Rayburn.

The services, ordered by a resolution adopted last week, consisted of eulogies in which most members present participated.

Rayburn died in his home town of Bonham, Tex., in November after a record tenure as speaker.

The program was in charge of Rep. Wright Patman, Democrat, dean of the Texas delegation. It followed reading of the President's budget message.

After the tributes, the House agreed to adjourn out of respect to Rayburn.

Eulogies for other members who died since Congress adjourned last summer were conducted last Monday.

Federal Chiefs Eye 'Game' Makers

Kansas City (AP) — Federal authorities got into the inquiry Thursday into a Kansas City firm which makes "jar game" and match pack tickets.

Wednesday city vice squad detectives closed down the Universal Manufacturing Co. plant employing about 150 persons. They acted on a warrant authorizing search for gambling paraphernalia.

One of universal's leading items was the match-pax. In its catalogue universal described match-pax:

"The most ingenious and cleverest idea ever developed . . . it resembles an ordinary book of matches, therefore it can be sold anywhere, any time, without attracting attention, since the courtesy of matches is a common, everyday occurrence."

Each "book" contains 10 slips of paper. The ends of the slips are glued down to conceal 3 numbers. If a book has the proper sequence of numbers, detectives explained, you have a winner. They said the colors of slips determined the amounts won, ranging from $1 to $20.

Universal advertises itself as the "world's foremost manufacturer of ticket games." It has operated in Kansas City about 20 years.

U.S. District Atty. F. Russell Millin visited Universal's office Thursday. He asked Joseph Berkowitz, president, and Sol Levinson, secretary, about the kind of records the firm kept.

Millin said he thinks some of the merchandise produced by Universal falls within the meaning of new federal law prohibiting interstate transportation of wagering paraphernalia.

All of the inventory and machinery at the plant was placed in the sheriff's custody and under the jurisdiction of the Jackson County Court. The firm's employes did not show up for work Thursday.

Millin said any further steps in the case by the federal government will be determined by the Justice Department in Washington.

The warrant was served yesterday on Levinson, 51. Berkowitz, 69, was in Chicago then. Still pending against the two is a December county grand jury indictment. It charges unlawful possession of gambling paraphernalia. Neither Levinson nor Berkowitz would comment Thursday on the firm's latest legal troubles.

Universal sued in federal court in Chicago Nov. 15 attacking the constitutionality of two laws passed by Congress in 1961 on interstate transportation of gambling equipment.
